SOUTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY'S new Sid Richardson Physical Education Center dominates this air view of the east portion of the campus. The huge building, which will contain a gymnasium for basketball seating 1700, hand-ball courts, swimming pool and other areas will be open and in use by next fall. Foreground of the picture shows tennis courts, the Commons (center, round building) and, on right, the handsome Perkins Chapel. Big, rambling three story building is where the girls live. We have had a few complaints from subscribers sending in their renewal checks concerning slow delivery of the SUNDAY SUN. For some reason they hadn't been getting their papers until Monday and occasionally not until Tuesday. Strangely, the Thursday paper is always delivered on time!

BELIEVE ME, we are working on this problem. There is no reason, I repeat, no reason, why anyone living in Williamson County, or in Austin, should not have his paper delivered Saturday morning. It's printed Friday night, addressed, and all papers except those to be delivered to Georgetown city and rural routes are transported by our truck to the Austin post office. From that point it is supposed to be carried to every postal station in Williamson County for Saturday morning delivery. If your SUNDAY SUN doesn't arrive on time, check with your carrier first, then with your postmaster. He will make inquiries in Austin that should lead to prompt delivery. If this doesn't work, let us know.

Art Ritchey's new Opel looks as though someone whacked it all over with a hammer. It's that dented. Art was driving near Kyle Wednesday when a sudden burst of hail began banging the car. "In just an instant," Art relates, "the whole highway turned white." Truckdrivers, he said, had been alerted through their CBs and had pulled to a stop all along the road. One car, however, hadn't fared so well. Not only was it dented, but the windshield was ripped out. Ritchey drove under a handy bridge "or, it could have been a lot worse."

John King and I were in Lampasas Wednesday when black clouds heralded an approaching storm. At the radio station, where I was visiting with Steve Sampson, owner, the telephone began "ringing off the wall" with callers reporting that hail the size of baseballs were falling 11 miles northwest, moving toward Lampasas. It didn't take me long to end my visit and head for home. Fortunately, the weather was passably good all the way to Georgetown.

IF EXPECTATIONS of local workers are fulfilled, a lot of strangers will be in Georgetown Saturday and Sunday, May 1 and 2, to visit historic homes and churches, on tours under the auspices of the Heritage Committee of the Georgetown Bicentennial Commission. Before they arrive, we ought to do a jam-up city-wide cleanup job! This would include, of course, gathering up trash and weeds from vacant lots, mowing lawns and removing unsightly objects from our front yards and, in general, doing the things necessary to put our best face forward. More about this next week, but time is running out.

to vote in the Democratic or Republican primary elections May 1.

All you need do is apply between April 12 and 27 for an absentee ballot from the county clerk's office, located on the first floor of the Williamson County Courthouse.

REGISTERED VOTERS who will not be within the county on election day may vote absentee in person or, if they will also be out of the county during the absentee voting period, by mail.

Any registered voter who will be out of the county election day and who wishes to vote absentee may do so in person during the absentee voting period by taking his voter registration certificate to the county clerk's office in the courthouse. There he can apply to vote absentee and mark his ballot.

A VOTER WHO ALSO will be out of the county during the absentee voting period may apply to vote absentee by mail.

This is done by writing for an application to vote absentee, and including the voter registration certificate, both of which should be returned early enough to be completed and mailed back to the clerk's office before 5 p.m. April 27.

The completed application, mailed back to the clerk before absentee voting begins, may be postmarked either inside or outside the county.

County campaigners spend $25,125

When is the last time you ordered $787.50 worth of matches?

If you are Edward Walsh, candidate for district attorney, it was just last January 28.

And if you think you are spending too much on U.S. postal stamps nowadays, just consider county attorney candidate Jean Loving's $1,216 spent on cards and postage.

Campaign time is when you know who your true friends — and relatives — really are.

Bill Sterling has been receiving checks from Beth, William, Norman, and Mable — all surnamed Sterling — to help his drive for county attorney.

Other candidates are equally helped by wives and other relatives — including themselves.

Billy Ray Stubblefield has donated $550 to his campaign for county attorney and Jean Loving lists a total $317.63 in contributions from herself, to cite examples from the same campaign.

BETWEEN CONTRIBUTIONS from relatives and those from other friendly supporters, the 27 candidates involved in contested county races had spent $25,125.20 by March 22.

Campaign contribution and expenditures statements covering the time each candidate designated a campaign treasurer — as early as December for sheriff candidate August Bosshard, as late as the February 2 filing deadline for many — until 30 days before the

The Council will also have to select a new Mayor Pro-Tem who would serve during any absence or disability of the elected mayor.

GENERAL TELEPHONE'S request is for a 21 percent rate increase in the Georgetown-Jarrell exchange. The company contends that it needs an extra $106,000 per year to make a fair return on its investment in the exchange.

The request was first presented last October, and GenTel representatives Carl Kinslow, Wayne Goodrum, and Don McWright appeared again before the Council in a special meeting March 25.

City rate consultant Dr. Jack Hopper recommended at that meeting that the Council not grant the company any increase at all.

Goodrum said GenTel must know the Council's decision by the middle of April or increase its rates without permission.

Formal approval of the city's contract with the M. H. Braden Company of San Antonio is also scheduled for Monday night. Braden is to build Georgetown's new fire substation at Williams and Central Drive for just under $100,000. Completion is expected sometime in September.

The city police department is due two new patrol cars, and bids are to be taken for them at the Council meeting, as well as for construction of a new city warehouse at Eighth and Forest Streets.

One patrol is to be full size, the other a compact, with $7,000 budgeted from the city Transportation Account to pay for them.

THE NEW WAREHOUSE will be built on the site of the old one, and is to be used for storage and maintenance of city equipment. Funds for that project will come from the Capital Improvements Account.

Ernest Lincoln, Executive Director of the Georgetown Public Housing Authority, will present a request for the city's annual contribution to the budget of the Stonehaven Center.

Seven city appointments are due Monday, including one each to the Historical Preservation Committee, the Housing Authority, and two each to the Urban Renewal Agency Board of Directors and the city Recreation Board. In addition, a city health officer is to be appointed.

... if the ballots are ready

While last week there were some misgivings about absentee ballots being ready in time, things are looking better now, with County Clerk Dick Cervenka hoping to have both Democratic and Republican ballots ready at this office as absentee voting begins Monday.

"The ballots are being printed now," he said Thursday. "Whether we get them or not, I don't know."

THE PROBLEM arose when W. A. Morrison, judge on the court of criminal appeals, recently resigned.

To fill the vacancy, the deadline for filing for that office had to be reopened through April 6.

It seemed then that required certification of candidates plus a random drawing for ballot position could not be done quickly enough for printers to have the ballots ready by April 12, the first day of absentee voting.

SINCE NO REPUBLICAN candidates filed for the judicial position, the certification and drawing processes were not needed and Republican ballot information was sent to be printed.

Week's news in a nutshell

JOHN DOERFLER was elected mayor of Georgetown in last Saturday's record turn out city and school board elections. Dee W. Scott was re-elected to the council and Carl Doering filled the other seat. In the School Board election, Everett W. "Pop" Williams and Fred Hilgeman led seven candidates to win.

Hospital Authority hoping for loan by late summer

Georgetown may have the ground breaking for the new area hospital by late summer.

"If it all goes well without a hitch," said Ken Poteete, hospital administrator, "We hope to hear from the federal government by the middle or end of June."

The Georgetown Hospital Authority is finalizing its original application with Farmers Home Administration for the loan to finance a new 60 bed area hospital.

"We are completing the final documents and tying down all figures," said Poteete. "We will complete them by the end of the month and then they will go to Washington."

"We have been led to believe that our loan will come through and I anticipate we will hear from Washington by the middle of June," said Poteete.

The $3 million hospital will take between 18 and 24 months to complete.

Donations for the hospital are still coming in, and present figures total $407,024.07.

Buster Compton, drive chairman for the hospital fund said, "Everything is going fine." He said he hopes to reach a total of $500,000.

Zoners vote on proposals

Rezoning of four Main Street lots for commercial use will be permitted, but rezoning of a lot at 1008 Pine Street and re-subdivision of eight lots in Oak Crest Estates will be prohibited if the Georgetown City Council enacts the recommendations of its Planning and Zoning Commission in a meeting Monday.

Commission members voted Thursday to submit those recommendations on three controversial requests presented to them in a turbulent session Tuesday night. They will also recommend that the Council permit resubdivision of two lots on Candlelite Circle and relocation of a property line on Country Club road, and that it approve final plats for the Urban Renewal addition and Quail Meadow III.

THE CITY COUNCIL has final authority over rezoning and subdivision requests. Such requests must be submitted to the Council through the Planning and Zoning Commission before they can be approved or disapproved. Commission recommendations are taken into consideration by the Council.

DRAEGER MOTORS requested Tuesday that the Council rezone four lots on the west side of the intersection of Fifth and Main streets, from residential to commercial areas. The company said it wants to expand into those two lots and use them as new car storage facilities.

The request brought opposition from residents of the area, who protested that it would destroy the residential character of the neighborhood and that such operations should be conducted on the fringes of Georgetown.

ELLEN PETERSON presented a request for rezoning of a lot at 1008 Pine St. through realtor Jean Arnold. Mrs. Peterson asked for the lot to be rezoned from Single Family Residential to Multiple Residential so she could establish a day care center for children in a house on the lot.

THE REQUEST DREW OPPOSITION from at least 22 persons who signed a petition against it. Lawrence Parr of 1005 Pine, speaking for the protestors, contended that such rezoning would constitute improper spot zoning. He said establishment of a day care center in that location would also create a safety hazard for the children because of traffic on the street and would disrupt the peace of the neighborhood.

Mrs. Arnold contended that since the center was planned to serve only 15 children, it would not be a source of disturbance.

Four property owners who live in the immediate vicinity of the proposed change submitted protests to the Commission. They also submitted a petition against the change, signed by 19 persons. Attorney Bill Connor represented the protestors and presented their case.

Attorney Bill Stump spoke for Draeger Motors. He presented the company's request, plus endorsements of the request from the Board of Directors of the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce and from S&B Investments, owners of two of the lots.

Residents of Oak Crest turned out in force to protest a proposed resubdivision in their area. Over 100 persons jammed the Council Room where the Zoning Commission met, to voice their objections to the request.

J. R. Canion of Austin had asked permission to resubdivide eight lots, seven of them on Southcross Road between Spring Valley and Ridgecrest Road, and one at the intersection of Randolph and Spring Valley.

Canion sought to reduce size of the lots and increase the number from eight to fifteen, each about 80 feet wide, for housing.

Some of the Oak Crest residents told Commission members they should not even hear Canion's requests because he did not appear for the meeting. They were told in turn that the Commission must hear any item legally posted on the agenda, even if it has been heard before.

The Oak Crest crowd seemed unanimous in its opinion that the resubdivision would erode the character of the subdivision by crowding it.

Commission members voted immediately after the crowd left to recommend Canion's request be denied.

OTHER PROPOSALS before the Commission did not generate such interest and were routinely approved by the zoners.

THE PANEL VOTED to recommend that the interior property line between lots 8 and 9 on Candlelite Circle in Candle Oaks be moved ten feet south to make the lots more nearly equal in size. They also approved W. H. Young's request to relocate the setback line of his lot on Country Club Road from 25 to 15 feet behind the property line, in order to avoid cutting down two oak trees on the back of the lot.

A final plat for Quail Meadows III was approved, pending removal of a commercial designation on Block 10 in the plat. That block, at the intersection of Oak Lane and River Bend Drive, was originally zoned for residential use. The Commission indicated Tuesday night it would send the plat back to the developer and review it after the word "commercial" was erased from the plat. Thursday the plat was approved pending the alteration.

Requests from the Urban Renewal Agency for approval of plats and variances from the city subdivision ordinance were also routinely approved, since the Urban Renewal plan was approved by the city before the subdivision ordinance came into effect.

STRINGS MAKE MUSIC — Twenty-six members of the Kilgore Strings Orchestra, directed by Jane Huffstetter, performed at Westside Intermediate, Northside Middle School and Southwestern University Wednesday morning. The traveling orchestra, who spent Tuesday night in the homes of PTA members and band students, lunched at the high school. They had performed in Houston Monday and in Victoria Tuesday.

Sinfonietta, Chorale perform dual concert Tuesday night

Approximately 70 instrumentalists and vocalists will combine their musical talents in a concert in the Alma Thomas Theatre at Southwestern University Tuesday, at 8 p.m. featuring the Southwestern Sinfonietta with Raymond Schroeder conducting and the University Chorale with Ken Sheppard, conductor.

The program includes Rossini's "Overture to the Opera, The Barber of Seville," Schubert's "Symphony No. 8 in B minor, 'Unfinished,'" Washburn's "Synthesis for Orchestra," Britten's "Hymn to St. Cecilia," Daudé's "Shepherd's Hymn," Pinkham's "Three Lenten Poems of Richard Crashaw," and Hanson's "Song of Democracy."

Schroeder, well-known clarinetist and assistant professor of music in the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University, has appeared in concerts in various states in this country and as soloist with symphony orchestras and symphonic bands in numerous cities. He is a graduate of Cincinnati Conservatory with a bachelor of music degree, Boston University with a master of music degree, and has done graduate study at the University of Texas at Austin.

Sheppard, instructor in music education and choral music in the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University, has served as guest clinician-conductor in numerous choral festivals in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, as guest lecturer on choral techniques, and has done extensive choral and solo judging. A graduate of Hardin-Simmons University with a bachelor of music degree and Texas Tech University with a master of music education degree with voice and music education as areas of concentration, Sheppard has had additional private study with Dr. B. R. Henson of the University of Oklahoma.

The Sinfonietta personnel includes these students from Georgetown: Thomas Douglass, violin; Doris Penick, violin; Elizabeth Brown, violin; Lois Jean Forswall, cello; Julie Nelson, oboe; Mary Alice Camacho, clarinet; Jan Faulkner, clarinet; Frances Myers, bassoon; Tammy Fairburn, French horn; Albert Ainsworth, trumpet; Alex Martinez, trumpet; Jeanne Clifford, trombone; Ollie Ann Myers, percussion; and Mary Austin, harp.

Also, Michial Meyer of Cedar Park, trombone; Jerry Harlow, of Round Rock, percussion; and Michele Murphy, of Liberty Hill, cello.

The Chorale personnel includes these Georgetown students: Vicki Sheppard, soprano; Bobbie Fisher, alto; and Tanya Gode, alto.

W-BCI directors to meet Monday

The Board of Directors of Williamson-Burnett County Opportunities, Inc. will hold its monthly meeting Monday, April 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Mary Bailey Child Development Center, 411 E. Eighth St. in Georgetown.

An overview of the CETA (Comprehensive Training and Employment Act) program administered by the agency will be presented in a board training session, which begins at 6:30 p.m.

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. My income tax return often mentions adjusted gross income. What is this?

A. Adjusted gross income is usually a taxpayer's total income minus any business expenses, sick pay, payments by employees to their own individual retirement plans, moving expenses and other adjustments to income.

Q. My daughter has earned over $3,000 working part time after school. Since she is a minor, does she have to file an income tax return?

A. The filing requirements for minors are the same as for any other United States citizen or resident. Generally, a minor must file an income tax return if gross income is $2,350 or more.

In addition, a minor who had any unearned income (interest, dividends, trust funds, etc.) must file an income tax return if they had gross income of $750 or more, even if claimed as another taxpayer's dependent. If a minor earned at least $400 through self employment, filing a return is required.

Minors who do not meet any of the filing requirements must still file a return in order to get back any Federal income taxes an employer has withheld from their wages.

A minor's earnings are subject to taxes even if under local law the parents have a right to the earnings and may have actually received them. In this case, the minor's income should not be included in the parents' income.

Q. I understand the IRS must re-deliver thousands of refund checks each year. How can I make certain my refund check is delivered?

A. Most refund checks are not delivered because the taxpayer has moved and has failed to leave a forwarding address with the Postal Service. Many taxpayers neglect to correct the label attached to their tax forms. Making sure that the IRS receives your correct name and address on this label can expedite delivery of your refund check.

Taxpayers who contact IRS about undelivered refund checks should give their name and address as it appeared on the return, and their present name, address, Social Security number and the type of form they filed.

With all that smoke in Aspen, Colo., there had to be marijuana burning — at least.

What I'm about to relate is not from the gang in the ski shop. It's from a professional observer — Jack Olsen of the Rocky Mountain News. And also independent sources.

It can be argued that to single out Aspen is unfair; that the temporary populations of all ski resorts are likely to bring with them their own morals, mores and junk.

Aspen has 2,500 permanent residents. But when the snow falls that population swells to 35,000.

The summer of '74 the U. S. Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) announced the results of an eight-month clandestine investigation of Aspen.

Immediately, 34 persons were arrested there for possessing or selling cocaine — 24 of them natives of Colorado.

For those not in the know, cocaine is a stimulant — usually inhaled — which produces a "high" lasting about 15 minutes.

The danger begins when users begin to mix their cocaine with heroin and inject it into their veins. The resultant "speed-ball" is a traumatic drug, often lethal.

By making a few inquiries on Aspen streets, anybody who is willing to pay $75 or more a gram could get all the cocaine he wanted.

Aspen parties — whether jet-set tycoons, artists, movie stars, writers, or ski bums, solo girls and hangers-on — almost always provide "a community Coke bowl."

Popular bartender-city councilman Steve Wishart says yes, "Cocaine is widely used in Aspen."

Schoolteacher-city councilman Pete De Gregorio insists, "It's no worse here than anywhere else."

Regional director for the federal DEA, John Ray Enright of Denver, says, "Aspen is thorn in our side; some people there think they are above the law, that it should be their own little world."

Aspen's permanent residents point to statistics showing that there are proportionately more "drug-related hospital admissions" in Denver than in Aspen, and that the Denver rate has doubled in the past year.

The DEA responds that most drug-related injuries in Aspen are treated clandestinely by private doctors — and that Aspen's more knowledgeable users are likely to know and self-administer antidotes.

Those heavily invested in Aspen fear that DEA undercover work will scare away their only cash crop.

Local psychiatrist Peter Bourne says the federal agents flashing fat rolls of money in their effort to trap cocaine pushers "actually stimulated narcotics traffic."

Other vacation spas sympathize with Aspen. When any resort gets a swinging reputation the upper crust soon goes elsewhere, leaving only crumbs.

Invite King Gustaf

It would be nice, and appropriate, should the good people of Palm Valley invite Sweden's young King Carl XVI Gustaf and his pretty wife to help us celebrate America's Bicentennial.

THE KING AND QUEEN are now in the United States, their purpose being to help America, a land his countrymen helped to build, observe its 200th.

Descendants of the pioneer Swedish people have recently seen their forebears' conquest of forest and field in motion pictures whose style and craftsmanship exemplify the qualities of Sweden's latter-day exports to the United States — from cars to cameras to Bergmans (Ingrid and Ingmar). It was a Swede, Gunnar Myrdal, whose scholarship went far toward explaining America to Americans on the subject of race. No one has surpassed Greta Garbo in that elusive thing called "star quality."

The King crosses the country after Swedish-American relations have been recovering from the rocky Vietnam years when Swedish criticism of America grew intense. But the strain was only on an official level, according to Prime Minister Olof Palme, one of the severest critics. Despite the anti-American demonstrations in Stockholm streets, the basic friendship between the Americans and Swedish people remained secure.

IT HAD TO. If not, think of the transoceanic ties that might have been broken — what with all the people of Swedish stock living in America, and not only in Minnesota. But we trust it will be not only Swedish-Americans who give King Carl XVI Gustaf a warm welcome as he smorgasbords his way from coast to coast.

Thousands of Swedes settled in Williamson County, concentrating around Palm Valley, Hutto and Georgetown, although many moved to other parts of the country later. They are among our most respected, progressive and honored citizens. Among them, King Gustaf would feel right at home.

Howard Hughes: myth and mystery within a legend

For the wrong reasons Clifford Irving was right: If Howard Hughes had not existed, it would have been necessary to invent him.

In an industry long since turned to mass production, Hughes was not just another American myth. Handsome with a fine dark touch of boredom, he was the myth to end all myths, a one-man coalition of 20th-century fantasies, a legend beside whom the fictions of the Great Gatsby and Citizen Kane paled.

As a young man, he was a pioneer on the last frontier, aviation. As an old man, he owned half the state of Nevada. The most famous of those who exile themselves from fame, he seemed to define the word fabulous down to the most delicious details.

In remote fields (we all knew) planes stood by with pilots on duty 24 hours a day, waiting to fly Hughes on his instant whim to a hotel in Beverly Hills where a private chef, also on 24-hour call, waited to prepare — once, twice a year? — the Perfect Steak.

Could even Orson Welles play this Texas tall tale? (Born the day before Christmas, 1905, when he died Hughes was returning to his birthplace with a melodramatic symmetry no scriptwriter would dare make up.)

Americans and all people fascinated by Americans are fascinated by Howard Hughes because he achieved almost to the point of parody the American Dream of success: immeasurable wealth; Byzantine power; the most beautiful women of Hollywood, falling like bit players at his feet. But he fascinated us even more because these — the best things the common mind could think of — so clearly were not enough for him.

There is a temptation to turn Hughes into a parable, a morality play to prove that acquisition leads to the most extreme form of poverty, that the possessor of power becomes his own slave. Much has been made of the loneliness, the presumed unhappiness of his later years.

The man who had everything — and had nothing. Clinging to this slightly condescending piety is better than envy. But the facts we know are not sufficient to justify any conclusions; and this is what finally fascinates us.

What was Howard Hughes worth? The answer may not be possible in simple dollars and cents. Great wealth of any sort — even money — defies its own measurements. Certainly the question cannot be answered in any deeper sense. He may have been the dullest man in the world — will turned into its own abstraction, an utter cipher inside those Chinese boxes that comprised his existence.

On the other hand, inside that final sanctum — his head — he may have led a life of richness comparable only to his Swiss bank accounts. For, in the end, Hughes was an act of the imagination: his imagination or ours or a collaboration between the two.

Just possibly he was the greatest deadpan comedian of his day.

The essence of Howard Hughes is precisely what we don't know, and maybe what we really don't want to know. Despite all our curiosity, we have somehow conspired with him in his secrecy. To the end he remained potentially almost anything, and in this ultimate mystery perhaps he was most truly, most terrifyingly American.

Jack Anderson Washington Merry-Go-Round

Copyright, 1976, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON — We've received several complaints from parents whose youngsters have been thrown into foreign jails on drug charges. We've investigated some of these complaints, and we don't like what we've learned.

The ugly truth is that young Americans are being locked up around the world, often without cause. In many countries, they have been beaten and abused. Their belongings have been seized. And they have been subjected to threats and extortion.

There's no question about it. We've received letters smuggled out of the prisons. We've examined dozens of State Department cables on the subject. Finally, we went to Mexico to talk to Americans behind bars.

But that isn't the worst of the story. These young Americans were set up by their own government. Here are the details:

Back in 1971, President Nixon issued urgent orders to stop the flow of drugs into the United States. There's no question this was a serious problem. He singled out 60 major drug trafficking nations for special pressure.

The State Department, the Drug Enforcement Administration, even the Central Intelligence Agency began bearing down on these governments.

As one source put it, "You can't believe the pressure we put on the other governments to stop the dope traffic."

The pressure was accompanied with financial offers. This year alone, the United States is pumping over $45 million into foreign narcotics agencies. The U.S. also began stationing DEA men in foreign countries. At this moment, 227 American narcotics agents are scattered through 41 nations.

Gradually, the foreign authorities began to cooperate. But unfortunately, they picked up few major smugglers. Instead, they cracked down on young people, many of them Americans, who were suspected of drug use.

Today, there are more than 3,000 U.S. citizens in foreign jails. And each day, a dozen more are slammed behind bars. State Department sources have acknowledged that most Americans who have been arrested on drug charges are completely innocent or are carrying only a little pot for their personal use. Their arrests are unreasonable by American standards.

But because of the pressure from Washington to break up the narcotics trade, to quote another source, "an American kid in a foreign country has become an easy mark." He may spend years in a stark, filthy, overseas jail.

All the while, the State Department has been urging the local authorities to crack down on drug abuse. This makes it awkward for our embassies to charge that the CIA once provided a prostitute for Hussein in Los Angeles. It wasn't quite that sordid. Here's what really happened:

So those caught in the coils of foreign police can expect little more from the State Department than a polite inquiry.

Congressional Follies: There are more than 19,000 bills in the legislative hopper on Capitol Hill. Most Members of Congress introduce bills for a legitimate purpose. But some congressmen introduce them simply to please constituents, to placate critics, to make a philosophical point or, on occasion, to get a persistent nut off their backs.

Congress is officially considering bills to establish national halibut week, UHF-TV week, peanut butter-and-milk week and asparagus week, to name just a few of the commemorative dates you probably will never hear of again.

There has been a deluge of Bicentennial bills. One would allow an enterprising group of citizens to build a patriotic "We the People" ice sculpture on the Capitol grounds.

Our favorite bill was written by a congressman who wanted President Ford to avoid assassination. The bill is called "The Better Part of Valor" constitutional amendment. It provides for "common sense" in the presidency. The bill states: "No person shall be President of the United States who shall not have enough sense to come out of the rain of bullets."

Royal Romancers: Jordan's dapper King Hussein was recently in the United States to hold solemn talks with President

Ford. Newsmen watched him more closely than usual because of the House Intelligence Committee's charge that the CIA once provided a prostitute for Hussein in Los Angeles. It wasn't quite that sordid. Here's what really happened:

The CIA arranged for a Hollywood lawyer to throw a party in the King's honor. The lawyer invited film stars and starlets to the party. The dashing King took a fancy to one aspiring actress. With the help of American officials, he arranged to have her return with him to Jordan.

It wasn't the first time that U.S. officials have helped an Arab potentate pick up a girl. Several months ago, Saudi Arabia's Prince Fahd took a fancy to a beautiful White House press secretary.

The Prince invited her to accompany him to London. She coyly demurred, saying she had no passport. At 4:30 the following morning, she was roused out of bed by a State Department messenger who brought her a passport.

Cuban Crisis: Both President Ford and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger have warned Cuba to halt its African adventure.

The President told senators privately that a special group is "studying all options" — if Cuba continues to interfere in African affairs. Our own sources say the most likely option would be a blockade to stop Cuban troops from going to Africa.

Yet at the same time that the President is threatening Cuba with military action, the Navy is considering a drastic cutback of its activities in Key West, Fla. The Naval Air Station at Key West was vital to the 1962 blockade of Cuba.

Dear Sir:

In behalf of the "Leander Taxpayer's League," I would like to express sincere thanks to the many people of our district for all their work as well as their votes for the Leander I.S.D. trustee candidates the League endorsed.

Without your concerted efforts, it would have been impossible to have secured all four positions.

Dear Mr. Scarbrough: Having been residents of this great town for more than thirty years, we feel that "Bell Gin Community" has been left out of news in the Sun.

This area, we are told, was settled by Swedish people. Many of the older people have moved to town, as has the great Free Church. We are told also that there was a school near the gin. The latter still stands although it is badly in need of repair. The machinery no longer runs. Our question is: "Why the landmarks committee has not recognized this old gin and cemetery which were for so many years a part of Georgetown?" I am enclosing check for another years subscription to "The Sun."

We remain, with all good wishes to each of you.

April 6, 1976

Dear Don: I was pleased with the voter turnout for the School Board and City elections, Saturday, April 3. The voters deserve praise, and I sincerely hope you will give our city and school district voters a pat on the back in your newspaper and urge voters to express themselves again in the May primaries. I have not figured the percentage of voters who marked their ballots, but the number alone reveals a vital, renewed interest in local elections.

It would be dishonest for me to say I was not disappointed when I learned the voters had not re-elected me to the School Board. I was, but I have been in the political arena as a voter, a supporter, a candidate, and as a campaign manager long enough to know that candidates don't lose, they just fail to get enough votes to win. I certainly appreciate those who did cast their ballots for me, and will encourage them to continue to vote their convictions when the times come in the future elections.

Your pre-election editorial about voting instead of just "gripping" about those in office was excellent. We can all speak loudly if we speak together at the polls and that voice is a booming, powerful one — an ultimatum that cannot be denied in this country... yet. As long as voters go to the polls and vote their convictions, it shall remain so, and this Bicentennial year is a great one in which to prove it.

I was beaten at the polls, but I surely do not intend to crawl off and hide and do nothing. I've put too much effort into Georgetown, this state, and this nation with some sincere desires to improve various phases and areas of each. I love our city, state, and nation, and will continue to offer and contribute my services and whatever expertise I have when needed and asked.

I sincerely hope our citizenry will now support their elected candidates, even those not of their personal choosing. I don't mean as "yes men" to those elected, but with a willingness to help and to express opinions and ask questions and offer suggestions to them. Our opinions may be in conflict, our questions not answered to our satisfaction, and our suggestions not followed, but we can't grow an oak until we plant the acorn and cultivate it, and in government we just have to be heard and plant the acorn of our desires with communication. Having been in the elected seat, I know how important and gratifying it is to hear what the public has to say. It is a tough, hard and trying job as an elected official for every vote and decision one makes creates an adversary, as well as a proponent. You can only try to do what is right in your mind and heart and what the majority of the public wishes, but you can't win them all everytime.

I reiterate, I hope you will, in THE WILLIAMSON COUNTY SUN, praise our voters for turning out in the City and School Board elections and encourage them to turn out

Editor's Note: Dr. Van Tipton of this city is the person to see about markers. He has a state form for applicants to fill out. He forwards applications to the State Historical Commission for their decision. If they agree that a marker should be granted, the petitioners pay for the plaque, as neither the state nor the county has funds for this purpose. Cost of the markers for houses or buildings vary according to size, from $150 to $400. — DS

Dear editor:

Write me up for another year. This is a beautiful country (Alabama) but I'd rather be in good ole Texas, preferably Georgetown. I do love being with my son and his family, beautiful hilly surroundings. We went out to see the new home of John's youngest son and wife and I felt like I was out in the country — six miles from John and Jo's home — and still in the city of Montgomery.

GRANBURY HIGH SCHOOL has an open campus, which means that students are permitted to leave it during lunch hour, as many do. The town was profoundly shocked this week when a carful of high school kids collided with another at an intersection, killing six of them.

National politics has moved into Texas. Ronald Reagan and President Ford were busy in Dallas, drumming up support for the all-important primaries, which come May 1. John Connally said during the week he felt Reagan was slightly ahead of Ford, but indicated the president would gain momentum in the next couple of weeks. He is being talked of as a running mate for Mr. Ford, a move that would certainly win the state for the slate.

Earl Butz, Agriculture Secretary, has been or may be linked with efforts by Howard Callaway to persuade the Forest Service to approve an expansion of Callaway's Colorado ski resort onto nearby federal land. Butz says "taint so."

★ Absentee

BUT ALL applications to vote absentee by mail, and the completed ballot, sent to the clerk's office after April 12 must be postmarked outside Williamson County.

Only voters unable to vote absentee in person will be legally allowed to vote absentee by mail. The official ballot, which will be mailed with the voter registration certificate after an absentee voter's application has been received, must be sent in an envelope postmarked not later than midnight April 30, the day preceding the county primaries.

The mailed ballot must be received by Cervenka's office before 1 p. m. May 1, election day.

PERSONS WHO WILL BE 65 years of age or older on election day or who cannot appear at the polling place May 1 because of sickness, physical disability or religious beliefs, are also eligible to vote absentee.

★ if the ballots

"They told me I should get the ballots back Thursday afternoon or Friday," Stanton said. But three men filed to run for the position on the Democratic ticket. They are Jim Vollers of Beaumont, Carl Dally of Austin and W. T. Phillips of Waco.

The three names were certified and the ballot order submitted to Cervenka's office Wednesday, then sent on to an Austin printer approved by the secretary of state's office to print the bilingual ballots.

IF THE DEMOCRATIC ballots do not arrive in the county clerk's first floor office in the courthouse by Monday, they will be made available to absentee voters "as soon as we get them," Cervenka said.

But he added a note of caution: "People that are within the county on election day must vote in person, with two exceptions. People within the county who are 65 years of age or physically unable to attend may vote by mail. But those who are physically unable to be at the polls must submit their application accompanied by a doctor's statement that they are physically unable to attend."

April 27 will be the final day during which county residents may vote absentee.

Storms just graze Williamson County

While some areas in central Texas received winds up to 75 miles per hour and baseball size hail, Williamson County escaped most of the effects of the storm Wednesday night. Some hail damage was reported in the Cedar Park-Leander area but most damage was light, causing slight damage to windows, roofs, and cars.

"No crop damage has been reported," said John Wakefield, county agent.

Most of the rainfall Wednesday was light, with Taylor reporting .30 inch, and one-half inch reported in Georgetown, Round Rock, and Hutto. The remainder of the county reported up to .40 inch.

And nature made sure of May flowers last weekend as rains soaked Williamson County with slow drizzles.

Although the southeastern portions of the county reported the heaviest moisture, all parts of the county received some relief.

Taylor reported the heaviest rains with 2.19 inches through Monday and 2.54 inches through Tuesday. Taylor was the only town to report Saturday rains.

A total of 2.35 inches was reported from Hutto, although rural areas around the city reported less.

Rain continued to fall on Cedar Park through late Monday. Nine-tenths of an inch was reported through Sunday, but the city received another .54 of an inch before clear skies returned.

Georgetown received steady rains from Sunday through Monday night with a total of 1.27 inches reported. The Austin weather bureau reported .61 inches fell Sunday and .66 inches fell Monday.

The city of Round Rock received 1.07 inches during the weekend.

Areas north of Georgetown received less moisture. Granger received a total of .56 inches, Walburg received .80 inches, and rain in Florence measured .63 inches.

Small grain farmers will benefit most from the rains, said Wakefield. "Most oats and wheat are booting and require large amount of moisture during the head forming stage," he said.

Ballot order set in first county Republican primary

The name of Carroll Smyers of Round Rock will precede that of Georgetown developer James B. Coffman on ballots for the Republican party's first local primary competition, as set by random drawing at a recent meeting of Williamson County Republican party representatives.

"I would certainly encourage Williamson County people to vote in the Republican primary May 1, not only for the presidential primary but also because this is the first time in history that we've got some Republicans running on the county level," said Bobby Stanton of Georgetown, chairman of the county Republican Party.

"AT THIS TIME," he added, "it seems to be shaping up that the Texas primary may play a very important part in the Ford-Reagan business. It's one of big states and could play an important part in deciding who is nominated."

Ronald Reagan's delegates will appear before those of Gerald Ford on ballots in both congressional districts in Williamson County.

Voters in the Republican primary will designate four presidential delegates.

Reagan's delegates in District 10 will appear in this order: R. Miller Hicks, Rhoda Benson and W. St. John Garwood, all of Austin, and Sue Briscoe of Eagle Lake.

Ford's District 10 delegates include Byron Fullerton of Liberty Hill. In the order in which their names will appear on the ballots, the four delegates are Mrs. Beryl Buckley Milburn and Millard K. Neptune of Austin, Fullerton, and Jay Anderson of East Bernard.

Voters living in the eastern part of the county, in District 11, will see eight different delegates for the two Republican presidential hopefuls.

Appearing first as all delegates' names will be printed on the Republican primary ballot will be "Mrs. Bette MacRae delegate for RONALD REAGAN." Mrs. MacRae is from Waco. Second name on the ballot will be that of Mrs. Jimmie Angel, also of Waco, to be followed by those of Herbert Hahn of Temple and Weldon Walker of Waco.

In the order in which they were drawn, delegates for Ford will be Walter Smith, Douglas R. Decluitt and Joan B. Wood, all of Waco, followed by Ronald Brandon of Temple.

The four delegates receiving the top number of votes in the primary election will attend the August 16-19 national convention in Kansas City, Missouri.

While voters in the Republican primary may select any four delegates, citizens choosing to vote in the Democratic primary will be allowed to elect only three delegates.

The presidential section of any ballot in which too many delegates are marked will be voided.

"You can't over-vote a ballot, though you can under-vote," explained Dick Cervenka, county clerk.

IN THE RACE for the U. S. Senate, the name of Louis Leman of Crosby will appear first, to be followed by those of Alan Steelman of Dallas and Hugh W. Sweeney of Houston.

The name of Paul McClure will be printed on the ballot before that of Bill Murray as the two Austinites challenge the position of incumbent U. S. Representative J. J. "Jake" Pickle, Congressional District 10.

District 11 incumbent W. R. "Bob" Poage's two Republican opponents will appear on Republican primary ballots in this order: Bill Murray of Austin; Jack Burgess, Waco.

THE REPUBLICAN Williamson County Convention will be held at 2502B Williams Drive at 10 a. m. May 8, county party chairman Stanton announced.

He has also released a listing of election places for the Republican primary:

- Four ballot boxes in Commissioners Precinct One: Georgetown Election Precincts 1 and 29 — Georgetown Fire Station, 802½ Main; Cedar Park Election Precinct 4 — City Hall, Park Place No. 1; Pond Springs Election Precinct 5 — Jollyville Volunteer Fire Department; Round Rock election Precinct 23 and Hutto Election Precinct 20 — Round Rock City Hall.

Historic tour tickets available

Tickets for the Georgetown 1976 Tour of Historic Homes and Churches are now available.

Tickets are available at the Georgetown Chamber of Commerce, The Williamson County SUN, and from Mrs. Merl Leffler.

The tour, presented by the Heritage Committee of the Georgetown Bicentennial Commission, will take place May 1 and 2, from 2-5 p. m.

A $2.50 donation for the tickets will be used for projects sponsored by the Bicentennial Commission.

★ City confronts

Zoning matters coming before the Council include rezoning of four lots on Main Street, resubdivision on Candlelite Circle, the final plat of Quail Meadows III, and Urban Renewal requests for variances from the city subdivision ordinance (see story page 15).

A request to amend a city ordinance limiting the business hours of pool halls, a request to permit operation of children's amusement rides in San Gabriel Park the week of June 17-26, and a proposed amendment of the city's building code ordinances will also come before the Council.

Probation, land sales on county court agenda

The request for a county juvenile probation officer is on the Williamson County commissioners' Court agenda again, this time apparently at the request of the commissioners themselves.

Commissioners' court meets Monday to discuss "Juvenile Probation Officer Matter," as the agenda lists it, and some 19 other routine and not-so-routine considerations.

LAND has loomed large in the concerns of the county officers recently, with commissioners ready to consider land trades and sales Monday.

After their trip two weeks ago to Sutton County, where 11,000 acres are owned by Williamson County schools, the four commissioners hope to hear more details leading to the trade of an isolated section of 640 acres in order to obtain a right-of-way.

Commissioner R. A. Rozacky will present a proposal that the court consider the sale of county-owned lots in Granger.

Commissioners will also consider requiring permits for moving houses on county roads.

Bids will be accepted on typewriters, filing cabinets and sheriff's department vehicles.

County Attorney Norman Manning will present a request for a new electric typewriter for his office.

Because Commissioner Wesley Foust's March 8 motion that bids be taken for the sheriff's vehicles specified "payment to be made out of the balance of revenue sharing appropriated for 1975," the court will also consider amending the revenue sharing budget to reflect any purchase approved.

In addition, bids on the sale of equipment in Precincts 2 and 4 will be opened Monday.

FURTHER REMODELING inside the courthouse will come in for discussion as commissioners consider rearrangements designed to yield further space for records kept by the county clerk's office.

The court will consider credit card telephone calls as well as the use of BankAmericard and Master Charge credit cards for collection of ambulance accounts.

An executive session for discussion of ambulance service operations is also scheduled on the agenda.

A request that a parttime employee be hired for the county tax office will be discussed, as will be reviewed, school election returns from April 3 canvassed and the final hearing on North Wood Oaks Subdivision held before the court adjourns Monday.

*Promotes the satisfaction of homemaking.
*Improves national and international relations.

Who can be in FHA?

*High school and junior high students who are currently enrolled or have completed at least one year of home economics.

What activities do FHA members participate in?

*Elderly projects
*Spirit projects
*City government interest projects
*Learning talents of special craftwork
*State school projects
*Bike-a-thon

Are there any special projects for FHA members?

*Yes, Encounter, a self-evaluating program in which the members set goals concerning individual, community or future plans.
*Yes, Impact, a process in determining all phases of projects.

Linda Kotrla

Linda Kotrla elected FHA area president

Linda Kotrla, a junior at Georgetown High School, has been elected Future Homemakers of America President for Area VII which includes 9000 girls and boys. "I'd like to see the FHA grow into an organization respected as more than a bunch of cooks and seamstresses," says Linda, "but as young Americans, with our attentions focused toward social, future and individual objectives."

Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kotrla of Route 1. Her FHA sponsor is Mrs. Ellamae Woodlief, Georgetown High School homemaking teacher. Currently serving as president of the Georgetown FHA, Linda served as Area fifth vice president last year and was a member of the state FHA executive council at the state meetings in 1974 and 1975.

As President of Area VII, Linda will lead a workshop in Wimberley June 1-3 to plan FHA projects. Then she will represent the area at the National FHA meeting in St. Louis, Missouri July 14-17. Linda will return to Georgetown just long enough to get ready for the State FHA meeting July 20-22 in Wimberley.

She will also represent the FHA at the State Fair, San Antonio Livestock Show, and the Area Future Farmers of America meeting.

Other organizations in which Linda is an active member include National Honor Society, Student Council, Junior Historians, Pan American Student Forum and girls basketball.

FHA ACTIVITIES

The Georgetown Future Homemakers of America chapter along with other Future

Homemakers of America across the state join together in celebrating Texas FHA Week, April 4-10.

The chapter planned a variety of activities for each day of the week. Monday the members' skills at preparing foods were displayed at the FHA baking contest. Categories of the contest were cakes, cookies and desserts. First, second and third place ribbons were awarded in each category.

Teacher appreciation day fell Tuesday as the FHA hosted a dessert taster at lunch for all high school teachers. FHA'ers wore name tags Wednesday to publicize the organization. Students collected litter Thursday. A luncheon concluded special FHA activities Friday.

FHA officers are Linda Kotrla, president; Kathy Bizzell, first vice president; Penny Sybert, second vice president; Bonnie Buckner, third vice president; Brandee Austin, fourth vice president; Rita Taylor, treasurer; Kathy Schnieder, secretary; Natalie Hubbard, historian; and Rita Romans, parliamentarian.

FHA sponsors and homemaking teachers are Mrs. Ellamae Woodlief and Mrs. Charcy Stanifer. Mrs. Caroline Kibodeaux, Mrs. Gene Stump and Mrs. Laura Sue Smith also teach homemaking.

Editor's note: The following article was written by Tom Sweazea, a student in Mrs. Ellamae Woodlief's all male homemaking class.

"Female" homemakers only? No!

For a long time many people, mostly of the female sex, have had a club all to themselves, well no more. Males all across the country have secured membership in the elite club known as Future Homemakers of America.

This organization is made up of young "people" who are both learning and doing things about their country, and having a good time doing it.

This being FHA week all the clubs (local, area, state and national) are celebrating. For instance in Georgetown, the local chapter is having a packed week, including a bake-off, party, trash pick-up and plus other activities.

And if you think all of this fun is only for girls, you are wrong, it's not.

In the bake-off for instance, some fellows have gotten together and baked, frosted and decorated a cake and other goodies, which they have entered with pride and hopes of winning.

These pioneering males are Johnny Sova, Edward Frias, Larry Allman, and Stephen Richarte, who are members of FHA and enrolled in boys' homemaking class at Georgetown High School.

So in this bicentennial year males are co-existing with their female counterparts and doing a good job of keeping even, and at times, ahead.

YOUNG HOMEMAKERS' CONTRIBUTION — Debbie Baldwin, Patricia Cox, Dennis Peyton and David Hewlett accept kitchen appliances (one kitchen center, four hand mixers, and three electric can openers) from the Young Homemakers of America. The service club, sponsored by Mrs. Caroline Kibodeaux, a high school homemaking teacher, runs the rodeo concession stands as their main project. Each year the non-profit organization makes a contribution to a deserving group, such as the home economics students this year.

Likeness

The artist is capturing the physical likeness of this lovely girl on her paper. The likeness is amazing. But her inward beauty, her wonderful Christian heart and soul, can only be captured fully on God's canvas. The Bible says that "Man looketh on the outward appearance but God looketh on the heart."

How would God's painting picture you and me?

One good way to improve your heart condition is to attend church and hear God's word proclaimed from the pulpit. Learn God's plan for your life by listening to His word. We invite you to attend the church of your choice this week.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

The Don welcomes you for pizza

Nestled "between the rivers" on North Austin Avenue is Georgetown's newest restaurant, the Don's Pizza.

Besides 15 pizza combinations, the Don's offers spaghetti, salads and hero sandwiches.

Tom Biondolillo, who opened the restaurant just a week ago, bakes fresh garlic bread each morning. Another featured menu item is his Italian style hamburger. "We don't grill it," Tom explained, "we bake it. And put tomato sauce and mozzarella cheese on it. It really is good."

A New Yorker-turned-Texas, Biondolillo comes to Georgetown from a successful pizza business in Killeen, Peppi's. "The opportunity here is better than up in New York — too many people and not any jobs there."

"I was transferred to Killeen from Germany," said the ex-serviceman, "and I had been in Texas about eight months when I got established in business."

"AFTER SERVING Killeen two and a half years, and doing fairly well up there, I decided I wanted to move out of Killeen. The first time I came through Georgetown was about three months ago. I felt that the opportunity here was great, so we came back here." Tom plans a grand opening after his staff is settled in and regular opening and closing hours are arranged. Currently the Don's is open around 11 a. m. until 10:30 p.m.

"The grand opening itself will probably be in about three weeks or a month. I'll probably announce it with the Chamber of Commerce. Up in Killeen, rather than a ribbon cutting ceremony we had a pizza cutting ceremony."

Located at 102 North Austin on the west side of the highway, the eatery is easily accessible to anyone driving through Georgetown.

"I like the location," Tom commented. "This is convenient to the high school and everybody in Georgetown passes by. I do plan improvements on the ground — getting it paved."

INSIDE the restaurant Tom's improvements are already quite evident.

New paneling glows in dim lighting enhanced by flickering candlelight. The cozy seating includes a number of plush red booths as well as the traditional Italian-restaurant red checkered tablecloths.

Within a month or so Tom plans to add a home delivery service within Georgetown city limits and in the University area. Orders telephoned to the Don's in advance are now being taken at 863-8122.

Currently employing a staff of four, Biondolillo plans a crew of half a dozen waiters, probably three dishwashers and several deliverymen.

"Right now I've got a husband-and-wife team, the Myatts, working for me, and two dishwashers. Ricky Myatt came down from Killeen with me to train as my manager and his wife Kathy will be head waitress. They are waiting to serve you."

Schroeder presents shrinking clarinet solo

Raymond Schroeder, well-known clarinetist, will be soloist for the Special Youth Concert presented by the Austin Symphony Orchestra with Wayne Barrington conducting Sunday, April 11, at 3 p.m. in the Paramount Theater in Austin.

There is no admission charge for this concert.

Schroeder will play a humorous number entitled "Concerto for Shrinking Clarinet" by Adolf Schreiner. As the piece progresses, parts of the instrument are removed until the ending, which is played on the mouthpiece alone. He performed this number with the Chautauqua Symphony in New York last summer.

Schroeder, assistant professor of music and conductor of the Sinfonietta in the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University, has appeared in concerts in various states in this country and as soloist with symphony orchestras and symphonic bands in San Antonio, Austin, Houston, Corpus Christi, New York and elsewhere. He is principal clarinetist with the Austin Symphony Orchestra.

For the past 11 summers Schroeder has performed with the Chautauqua Symphony and Opera Orchestra in New York, appearing as soloist. He is a frequent adjudicator for music competition and festivals.

A graduate of Cincinnati Conservatory with a bachelor of music degree and Boston University with a master of music degree, Schroeder has done graduate study at the University of Texas at Austin. Prior to joining the music

St. Helen's sets first communion

Various special events will be taking place at St. Helen's Catholic Church in the near future, according to Father Al Palermo, St. Helen's pastor.

CHILDREN in the second grade will receive Holy Communion for the first time May 2 at a special 2 p.m. Mass.

In addition to their regular religious classes, these children must attend special classes April 22 and 29.

Children will be given special notations to remind them of these additions.

ST. HELEN'S has also set dates for confirmation.

This special service will be conducted at St. Helen's June 9 and 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the church of Santa Rosa at Andice.

Plans are being made for a "Living Rosary" to be conducted at St. Helen's during May. Chairman is Mrs. Lois Vasquez.

More plans will be announced later.

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

Many things are in evidence as proof of the complete rejuvenation that has taken place in our community.

Just one of the many things in which we can take pride is the consistently large number of our citizens who are registered voters and who don't fail to go to the polls to cast their votes. Where we have over 50 percent voter turnout many other communities have far less, often less than 15 percent!

As long as this type of spirited interest is present among our citizenry there will be a continued growth and improvement in all segments of our community; this type of spirit is quite noticeable even to the casual observer. One visitor to our first Arts and Crafts Fair (she said, "My name is Charlie") was very impressed with the friendly atmosphere — this former Alabamian said, when talking to the Wilson ladies, that we were the friendliest people she has ever met.

The next Arts and Crafts Fair in Liberty Hill will take place April 17, it is reported that over half of the booths have already been reserved.

Be sure to make plans to be among the throng at the next Liberty Hill Arts and Crafts Fair — you will be WELCOMED WITH OPEN ARMS, and we are sure that you will be glad you came!

All classes in the Liberty Hill Schools, we remind you, will be dismissed for the Easter vacation April 16 through 19.

The Liberty Hill Band Parents Club will host a variety show in the Liberty Hill School April 10 at 7:30 p.m. Arleigh Duff of KVET in Austin will be the emcee for this show, and the Del Valle Stage Rock Band, under the direction of Dr. George Weiss, will be on the program. There will also be a Womanless Wedding.

Admission for the show will be $1 for adults, 50 cents for students. All the proceeds from this show, as well as all funds raised at the concession stands, will go into the Liberty Hill Panther Band uniform fund.

This sounds like a very entertaining evening, so be sure not to miss it.

The Liberty Hill PTA will have its April meeting at 7:30 p.m. April 27, with the entire student body of the Liberty Hill Elementary School in the cast of a bicentennial presentation. Everyone is invited and exhorted to attend the meeting and be entertained by this timely program!

Those of you who missed

"Philpot's Sun Sports" in last Thursday's SUN should be sure to go back and read it — this writer has said many good things about our school and our community, and it is to be appreciated by all of us. "Thank you, Jarvis Philpot!"

Last Tuesday evening the Liberty Hill Panthers' Baseball Team beat their adversaries from Salado by a score of 6 to 1, as Donnie Johnson recorded his third win against as many losses. Travis Gilmore was leading hitter in the game with two for three times at bat to drive in two runs. Roy Montemayor and Eddie Brewster were outstanding defensively for the young Panthers.

Our team played the Johnson Eagles Friday evening in their first District game.

The menu for the Liberty Hill School Cafeteria for April 12 through 15 reads as follows: MONDAY — Barbecue on a bun, potato salad, pinto beans, cherry delight cake, and milk; TUESDAY — Pizza, green beans, salad, fruit and milk; WEDNESDAY — Fish, slaw, tater tots, peanut butter pudding, and milk; THURSDAY — Roast with gravy, new potatoes, English peas, fruit and milk; FRIDAY — HOLIDAY!

Our own Elaine Lackey was honored as being the Florence FFA Sweetheart when she and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lackey of Liberty Hill, attended the FFA Banquet in Taylor last Thursday evening.

Keep Smiling!

Blackout caused by malfunction

Electrical power was temporarily knocked out in the northwestern quarter of Georgetown and at points scattered elsewhere throughout the city Wednesday morning because a transformer belonging to the Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA) was accidentally shut off.

Power was restored 45 minutes to an hour later. City Electrical Supt. A.E. "Tony" Shenk said the cause of the malfunction had been found and corrected.

LCRA maintains an electrical substation with two transformers on State Highway 29 just west of town. The city's electrical distribution system begins there with the two transformers providing electricity. Wednesday the transformer on the west bank of the substation yard automatically shut off about 9:30 a.m.

"IT WAS CAUSED by a malfunction in the relay gear of the control system at the substation," Shenk explained. "The man handling the job got two wires reversed. In plain old words, the control machine thought it was in big trouble and automatically shut off the west bank transformer. You're always subject to these things as long as the human element is involved. Now everything is back to normal."

City electrical crews and LCRA technicians, who are responsible for operation of the substation, transferred the downed transformer's load to the "east bank" transformer so that the blacked out areas got the juice again about 10:30 a.m.

"It was a good thing that it was a cool day, with no big demand for electricity," said Asst. City Manager W. L. Walden. "We switched the whole system to the east bank, and if it had been a hot summer day with a lot of demand, for air conditions and so forth, we might have had a little bit of a problem because of the draw. As it was, it was nothing serious."

Walden said the affected area extended north of State Highway 29 and west of U.S. 81 and to other areas, including Southwestern University and parts of the downtown square.

The west bank transformer was inspected and Thursday at 11 a.m. it was switched back on and began handling its full share of the power load again.

Iota Phi chapter initiates three, elects officers

The members of Iota Phi chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society, international organization for women educators, met Monday, April 5, at the home of Mrs. Liz Ramsel. Co-hostess for the occasion was Mrs. Mildred Pierce.

The three new members initiated were Mrs. Mildred Killen, Mrs. Charline Price, Mrs. Sara White.

Following the impressive ceremony refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Chapter members agreed to participate in the World Fellowship Program which grants fellowships to women educators from other countries and the State Scholarship program for higher education.

Officers for 1976-1978 were elected and include: Mrs. Beverly Treuhart, president; Mrs. Mary Frances Radius, first vice president; Mrs. Etta Rush Dees, second vice president; Mrs. Betty Black, recording secretary; Mrs. Sherry Chapman, corresponding secretary.

Mrs. Ruth Williams, State Area Director of Delta Kappa Gamma and Principal of Pease Elementary School in Austin, was the guest speaker.

Her topic "Where to from here?" encouraged members to set goals for themselves as well as for the society and to work to affect changes in our profession.

Dr. Theodore D. Lucas named Southwestern Fine Arts Dean

Dr. Theodore D. Lucas has been named Dean of the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University, University President Durwood Fleming announced last week.

Dr. Lucas, who is currently chairman of the Department of Music at Beloit College, Beloit, Wisconsin, will assume his new responsibilities at Southwestern June 1.

Students and faculty members had an opportunity to meet the new dean and his wife, Sue, at a reception and at other functions held in their honor Monday. Dr. and Mrs. Lucas had lunch with students majoring in fine arts, and then had dinner with members of the fine arts faculty and their spouses Monday evening.

Referring to his new position at Southwestern, Dr. Lucas said that "a quality education consists of a broad background of liberal arts courses framed by intensive training and ultimately expertise in one or more of the traditional disciplines."

"A faculty dedicated to teaching and to the development of moral character and social commitment is essential to this kind of education."

Dr. Lucas went on to say, "I hope to offer leadership in the development of new programs, in the strengthening of present ones, in seeking outside funding for new and existing programs, and in helping to maintain quality education in the fine arts by drawing on my experience in music, art, theatre, and dance."

A native of San Diego, California, Dr. Lucas earned a B.A. degree in 1963 and a M.A. degree the next year from San Diego State University. He received a doctor of musical arts degree from the University of Illinois in 1970. His major areas of interest were composition and theory, with orchestration, literature, jazz ensemble, and ethnomusicology as minor areas.

Dr. Lucas has done additional study in theory and composition with Nadia Boulanger in France, solfège with Annette Dieudonne in Paris, music theory and practice of India with Ali Akbar Khan, and electronic music composition with Burt Levy.

Dr. Lucas was instructor of

theory and literature at the University of Missouri before assuming his present position at Beloit College.

While at Beloit, Dr. Lucas has played viola in the Beloit Symphony, of which he is a board member. He has also directed a summer seminar for Beloit students in France, served as music director for three summers at the New American Theatre in Rockford, Illinois, and has been music director of the Beloit Civic Theatre and Beloit Court Theatre.

Dr. Lucas has also served as minister of music of the First Presbyterian Church and of Our Savior's Lutheran Church.

He has played as violinist and violist in various orchestras, including principal viola in the St. Louis Philharmonic and St. Louis Gateway Orchestras.

His published compositions include "Metamusic for Flute and Tape," "Meditation for Flute and Piano," "Tralag for Flute, Harpsichord, and Tape," "Sonnet for Piano," "Aberrations No. VII," and "Professor Channing-Cheetah's Cocktail Party."

Dr. Lucas contributed an article to the "Yearbook of Inter-American Musical Research" published by the University of Texas Press (1971), entitled "Songs of the Shipibo of the Upper Amazon."

His most recently published musical composition is "Music for Six Horns" (1976).

Mrs. Lucas, nee Sue Wich, is herself a flutist. They have three children, David, 8; Christopher, 7; and William, 4.

Dr. Lucas's hobbies and interests include swimming, boating, water skiing, flying, golf, and tennis.

Dr. Lucas is a member of the Society for Ethnomusicology, the College Music Society, the American Society of University

Composers, and the American Association of University Professors.

Readers enjoy 58 years of SUN

J. O. Mott of 1004 Pine Street dropped into the SUN office to renew his subscription to the SUN and Sunday SUN, and also to renew for his son, James E. Mott of Taylor.

Mr. Mott is 80 years old and stated that he got married in 1917 and started reading the SUN in 1918 and has been reading and enjoying it ever since.

Audrey Ahner McClinchie presents multi-media presentation in St. Louis

A feature of the 16th annual convention of the National Art Education Association in St. Louis, Missouri, April 11-16 will be a multi-media presentation entitled "Art Stars" by Audrey Ahner McClinchie, instructor in art education in the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University.

This presentation, scheduled for April 14, is a visual, phenomenological research of the star as a symbol. It begins with a bicentennial theme, using Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" as background music. Also included is a sketch of Round Rock as a typical small southwestern town, using the bicentennial parade as a focus.

The second part of the presentation is a look at Austin accompanied by "Deep in the Heart of Texas" sung by Bob Wills. It includes various items sold with a bicentennial theme and some clever associations that are "pure Texas." The third part is an investigation of signs in and near Austin that have the star as a symbol and is accompanied by the music of Jonathan Edwards entitled "The Honky Tonk Stardust Country." This section begins with the L&M CAFE in Georgetown.

Part four of the presentation concerns people wearing stars, including personnel and visitors at Southwestern University. This portion is accompanied by "Shining Star" by Earth, Wind and Fire.

Part five, inspired by "Vincent" (written and sung by Don McLean), contains Van Gogh's famous painting, "Starry Night," as a focus. This section includes the star as a theme for painting, using artist McClinchie's paintings as illustrative points. Part six, a cosmic interpretation, is inspired by Richard Strauss' "Thus Spoke Zarathustra."

Part seven, the finale, is a surprise ending, using the electronic music supplied by Dr. Ellsworth Peterson of the music faculty in the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University. Termed "Silver Apples of the Moon," this section includes things that look like stars but are not stars.

The idea for "Art Stars" was "born" last summer while Ms. McClinchie was involved in a three-week course in "Creativity" at Syracuse University. She will be presented in a one-woman exhibit at St. Edward's University in Austin next fall, using the title "Art Stars" and including a variation of the theme.

As representatives of Texas at the national art conference in St. Louis, Ms. McClinchie of Southwestern University and Bill Francis of the art department of the University of Texas at Austin will join artists from three other states in the afternoon program April 14.

Ms. McClinchie, whose interest areas include painting,

ART STARS — Audrey Ahner McClinchie, instructor in art education in the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University, will present a multi-media presentation entitled "Art Stars" at the 16th annual convention of the National Art Education Association in St. Louis, Missouri, April 11-16.

sculpture and art education, is a graduate in art education from Syracuse University with a bachelor of fine arts degree (cum laude) and the University of Texas at Austin with a master of fine arts degree. The recipient of an H.E.W. Fellowship, she has done post-graduate work at the University of Texas in studio and art education and also at Syracuse University. She is currently working toward a Ph.D. degree at the University of Texas at Austin.

Prior to joining the art faculty at Southwestern University in 1974, Ms. McClinchie was associated with the art department at Austin Community College and also served as art instructor at St. Edward's University and the University of Texas.

Ms. McClinchie's paintings have been exhibited in the Elizabeth Ney Museum, University of Texas Art Museum, Joske's Gallery, Texas Fine Arts Association (a 1972 T.F.A.A. winner), Alma Thomas Gallery in the Fine Arts Center at Southwestern University, and elsewhere. She has conducted workshops in painting and sculpture at Winedale and has served as judge for art fairs and festivals.

Memberships for Ms. McClinchie include Texas Fine Arts Association, Laguna Gloria Museum, Sigma Chi Alpha (honorary art education fraternity), Pi Lambda Theta (honorary education fraternity), Art Guild, American Association of University Women, and other organizations.

Ms. McClinchie's future plans, in addition to exhibits and illustrated lectures, include putting her ideas and writings on "creativity" between the covers of a book.

Carl Lowry, Courtney Ward exhibit art at Southwestern

An art exhibit featuring works of two candidates for graduation this spring from the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University may be viewed through April 25 in the Gallery of the Alma Thomas Fine Arts Center, announces Claude Kennard, director of the Gallery.

Artists exhibiting include Carl Lowry of La Serena, Chile, and Courtney Ward of Fort Worth, both majoring in art. They have studied with Guss Farmer, David Everett, Claude Kennard, all of the art department in the School of Fine Arts, and with the late R. L. Lancaster, well-known sculptor and long-time chairman of the art department.

Lowry, whose areas of concentration include painting, drawing and art history, is exhibiting six paintings, 12 small drawings and six mural-size drawings. One of Lowry's drawings was accepted for the Texas College Art Show, an exhibit on view in Dallas through April 30.

In addition to his studies at Southwestern University, he has had a year's study in Chile where his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. David Lowry, are currently located. Memberships for Lowry include International House and Student Congress.

Miss Ward, with painting, drawing and sculpture as areas of concentration, has been interested in art since elementary school days but has worked seriously in the field during the past two years. She is exhibiting six paintings, eight drawings and two pieces of sculpture. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Ward of Fort Worth.

Both Miss Ward and Lowry are the recipients of the Lancaster Award for outstanding achievement in art, an award named in memory of the late R. L. Lancaster of the art department.

The two young artists will be available to discuss their art works with university personnel and patrons at 6 p.m. Friday, April 9, in the Gallery. The public is invited.

Texas unemployment moved up to tenth of one per cent last month, bringing to 5.4 per cent the jobless rate.

A new Railroad Commission order would raise natural gas bills for the average residence in Whitesboro from $14.48 to $20.21 a month. The city had refused Lone Star Gas Co. permission to up rates. A Mineral Wells rate rollback order also was invalidated by the commission.

Atty. Gen. Hill argued before the U.S. Supreme Court that the Texas death penalty statute is constitutional.

JONESTOWN FIRE DEPARTMENT AUXILIARY officers are sworn in by B. A. (Mrs. Lloyd) Bentsen during recent ceremonies held in Austin. Taking the oath of office are, from left to right, Mrs. Pat Holden, vice-president, North Jonestown; Mrs. Billie Sargee, vice-president, South Jonestown; Mrs. Betty Horton, treasurer; Mrs. Birdie Schneider, vice-president, Central Jonestown; Mrs. Marion Stanley, secretary; Mrs. Deane Armstrong, president.

B. A. Bentsen, wife of U. S. Senator Lloyd Bentsen, was the featured guest March 31 at the swearing-in ceremonies for the new officers of the Jonestown Fire Department Auxiliary. Mrs. Bentsen participated in the activities and congratulated the new officers at the afternoon meeting held at La Ronda restaurant in Austin.

New officers for the auxiliary are: Mrs. Deane Armstrong, president; Mrs. Pat Holden, vice-president, North Jonestown; Mrs. Birdie Schneider, vice president, Central Jonestown; Mrs. Billie Sargee, vice-president, South Jonestown; Mrs. Marion Stanley, secretary; and Mrs. Betty Horton, treasurer.

The auxiliary plans to assist in fund-raising activities aimed at collecting $10,000 for a new building to house the Jonestown Fire Department and four fire trucks.

Deane Armstrong, newly elected president of the auxiliary, said: "We are looking forward to a successful year and we truly appreciate the interest and support of Lloyd and B. A. Bentsen. It is heartening to know that they support our activities in the rural areas of Texas."

Winning music talent team heads to Topeka

It's off to Topeka, Kansas, for the seven-member musical talent team of Granger-Bartlett Office Education students who placed first in state competition April 1-3 at the Astroworld Hotel in Houston.

Winning with a medley of songs depicting their love for music were six Bartlett students, Marsha Goodnight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Goodnight; Martha Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom E. Jones; Lisa Jackson, daughter of Mrs. Betty Jackson; Arthur Ford, son of Mrs. Mary Evans; Debbie Hill, daughter of Mrs. Helen Hill, and Lesa Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Smith, plus their accompanist, Phyllis Kurtin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laddie Kurtin of Granger.

Rosanne Hajda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hajda of Granger, also participated in the state meet, entering the Information Communication I competition.

The Office Education talent team and their sponsor, Mrs. Leroy Janke of Bartlett, will be singing at the Tenth Annual Office Education Association Conference in Topeka May 1-4.

GHS reports: no lice problem

While head lice among Round Rock school children is rapidly developing into a major problem, Georgetown school nurse Katy Green reports all is well here.

Round Rock school officials are considering a new policy which would send students afflicted by the parasite home from school until proof of treatment can be established.

Here in Georgetown a comprehensive health unit composed of Mrs. Green, who handles health complaints of students in grades five and 12, and Ann Parker, who works with kindergartners through fourth graders, has reduced such problems to a minimum.

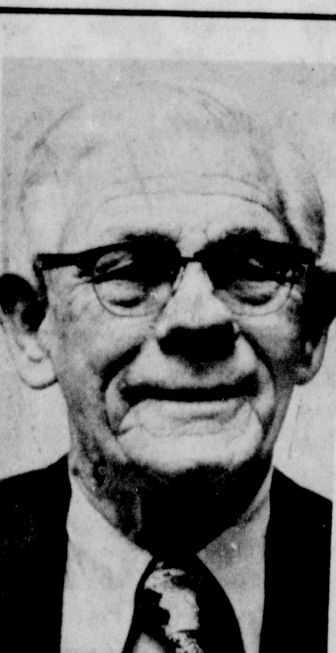

Ann Jenkins, who teaches a health class in the high school, also assists the school nurses during the afternoons.

"We have a pretty good setup and get medical help locally if we need it," said Mrs. Oatman, who has worked with the schools 11 years. "It has been several years since we've had any number (of lice cases) to amount to anything, and when we do we fumigate the building when the children are gone. So therefore we do not have the problem that Round Rock has. We stay with this all the time and this sort of thing has been taken care of for several years."

Pirate baseballers to tangle with Rattler nine Tuesday

Southwestern University's baseball Pirates play a conference game Tuesday with league leading St. Mary's University.

The game will be played in San Gabriel Park in Georgetown and will begin at 3 p.m.

Southwestern was to have played Texas Lutheran College Saturday in San Gabriel Park at 2 p.m. with Noel Seal expected to start for the Bucs on the pitchers mound.

Going into that game Southwestern was 4-1 in conference play with their only loss earlier in the season to St. Mary's in San Antonio.

The Bucs have three other games slated this week. Thursday they play St. Edward's in Austin and Friday and Saturday they play Abilene Christian in Georgetown. Friday there will be a single game beginning at 2 p.m. and Saturday will be a double-header beginning at 1:30 p.m.

LAST TUESDAY Pirates defeated the University of Texas, Arlington, 7-6 in a come-from-behind effort at San Gabriel Park.

The Bucs trailed until the eighth inning when the Arlington pitcher loaded the bases, mostly on bases on balls, and then walked in the tying run with only one man out.

Bobby Fuller then laced a single through the infield to score David Stiba and Kenny Wenzel and put the Bucs in the lead 7-5.

The Mavericks tried to come back in the top of the ninth inning, but fell short as they pushed only one more run across in the wild ball game.

Southwestern avenged an earlier loss to the Mavericks, ranked one of the top teams in the state and sporting a 21-10 major college record coming into Tuesday's game.

Left-handed Mike Skinner emerged the winning pitcher as he relieved Steve Wendland in the fourth, but it was Rick Prewitt who came on in the eighth to record his sixth save of the year.

Wenzel had one of his best days at the plate as he hit three of four times at bat and drew two walks.

THE WIN moved the Pirates season record to 26 wins and only nine losses going into Saturday's game with TLC.

The Bucs were one game behind St. Mary's (5-0) after some decisive games April 3. As Southwestern was sweeping a double-header with LeTourneau College 5-2 and 4-3, TLC and East Texas Baptist beat each other with the East Texans winning the first game 3-2 and TLC the second 1-0 in Seguin.

St. Edward's, just 8-18 for the season, is a surprising third in the conference with a 4-2 mark while TLC (the defending conference champion) and ETB are in fourth at 3-2.

Only LeTourneau (11-11 and 1-4) and Huston-Tillotson (5-15 and 0-7) are out of the running, but both showed promise of spoilers Saturday.

St. Mary's had to hit a three-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning Saturday to beat Huston-Tillotson 3-2, and Southwestern had to pull all stops to edge pesky LeTourneau in the second game 4-3.

Southwestern edged TLC 4-3 in 11 innings in Seguin week before last and lost to St. Mary's 4-1 in San Antonio on March 27.

INSPECTING crime scene kits and the newly-opened interrogation room during the sheriff's office open house are, left, Leon Shrank, director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service which had been housed where the sheriff's office is now, and the Rev. Bill Metting of St. Peter Lutheran Church in Walburg. Over 100 guests registered Wednesday and were served coffee and cookies by Vida and Lena Bosshard and Sylvia Walker.

Newcomers honored

The newcomers of St. Helen's Catholic Church were honored with a "Newcomers Supper" at St. Helen's Parish Center Tuesday night.

This annual event is hosted by St. Helen's church board members and their families.

A very large crowd of old and new church members gathered for an evening of getting acquainted.

VERY SPECIAL guest was Father Al Palermo, who himself is a newcomer, as he joined St. Helen's in the fall of 1975.

Larry Reeder, president of the board, welcomed everyone and introductions were made.

Members of the church board are Richard Nemec, Larry Reeder, Mrs. Georgia Howry, Mrs. Sylvia Walker, Herbert Werchan, Eddie Bracamonte, Gene Bracamonte and Tim Maresh.

The Women's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor reports in its Handbook on Women Workers that among children of working mothers, 4.6 million had mothers who were heads of families, and 913,000 of these children were under the age of 6.

Spring Convocation speaker identifies sunken Navy vessel

Dr. Frank E. Vandiver, who will speak at Southwestern University's Spring Convocation April 23, has recently helped identify a sunken U. S. Navy vessel of the civil war.

Dr. Vandiver, Rice University provost and one of the nation's outstanding authorities on the civil war as well as a noted military historian, joined with colleague Dr. Paul Cloutier in expressing certainty that the vessel is the ship "Hatteras."

The Hatteras, a converted side-wheel merchant vessel of some 1,100 tons, was sunk by the Confederate warship Alabama in a savage nocturnal sea battle on January 11, 1863.

Dr. Cloutier, associate professor of space physics and astronomy at Rice who scuba dives for sport, found the vessel with two associates, Jeff Burke and Charles Rose, both of Rio Hondo.

Historical Significance
Dr. Vandiver pointed out that "the historical significance of the find is immense since the Hatteras was rapidly sunk without extensive damage and with all stores still aboard, including an arsenal of small arms, cutlasses, shot and the ship's cash box believed to contain some $3,000 in coins."

Four cannons were lashed to the deck of the Hatteras when she was sunk, Dr. Vandiver said.

Four Year Search
Cloutier, who started on the project to find the Hatteras about four years ago, used special equipment and instrumentation designed and built especially for the project to finally find the sunken ship.

There were many false alarms until about two years ago when Dr. Cloutier and his associates first detected a large magnetic anomaly and obtained a sonar trace which seemed likely to be "Hatteras."

However, despite their sophisticated instrumentation, the divers still faced severe restrictions on the time they could spend under water. Their diving was limited to 60 minutes without requiring lengthy decompression procedures to avoid the bends.

"I felt many times on the bottom that I was close to finding the 'Hatteras,' but ran out of air and time and was forced to quit," Dr. Cloutier said.

"But on January 17 of this year, we were finally able to put a marker on the wreck. In addition to recovering some items from the deck, we photographed many parts of the wreck to help with its identification as the 'Hatteras.' We discovered the ship's steam engine and its paddlewheel assembly."

Found Name Plate
The most significant discovery leading to positive identification of the wreckage was an engraved name plate which identified the ship's builder and the place and date of its completion, located and brought up by Rose.

Dr. Cloutier and his associates are not ready at this time to pinpoint the exact location of the wreck, which lies beyond the 12-mile limit.

The Right Way
"The wreck and its contents are valuable and could be salvaged for large private profit," Dr. Cloutier said.

"But we would like to see the recovery proceed in the right way. To protect the site from vandalism — there are unfortunate precedents of this sort on and off-shore — we have removed all surface markers that might allow others to find the vessel. We'll rely on our specialized instruments to return to the wreck in the future."

Dr. Cloutier and his associates and Dr. Vandiver have concluded "after careful consideration of all factors involved that the full historical value of the find could best be realized with the cooperation and support of appropriate educational and historical agencies."

The U. S. Navy has been contacted and has acknowledged the claim of discovery by Dr.

Cloutier and his associates.

Captain Survives

Meanwhile the wreck rests in many feet of sand and silt at the bottom of the Gulf, possibly still containing the remains of one or two sailors who died during the battle which also caused five other crewmen of the "Hatteras" to be injured.

Lieutenant Commander H. C. Blake was the captain of the ill-fated "Hatteras." He survived the battle and reported loss of the ship to the U. S. Department of the Navy in a letter from the U. S. Consulate in Kingston, Jamaica on January 21, 1863.

In this letter, Blake also had "the pleasure of informing the Department that every living being was conveyed safely from the 'Hatteras' to the 'Alabama.' Two minutes after (our) leaving the 'Hatteras' she went down, bow first, with her pennant at the mast-head, with all her muskets and stores of every description, the enemy not being able, owing to her rapid sinking, to obtain a single weapon."

Confederate Account

The Confederate side of the battle was covered by Admiral Raphael Semmes in his "Memorior of Service Afloat," published in 1869. Semmes writes that "the entire battle lasted 13 minutes, the 'Alabama' — taking care, too, though she sank her enemy 'at night, to see that none of his men were drowned."

Roof downed on new Bartlett library

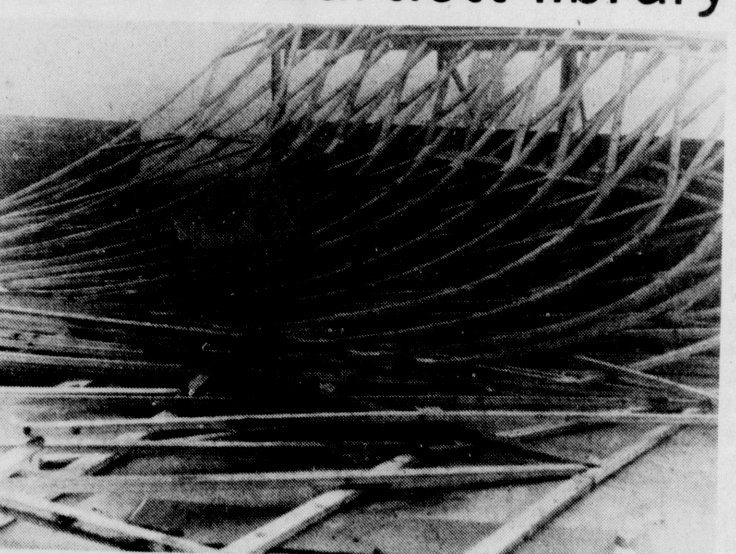

Roof supports on construction of the Teinert Memorial Public Library on Highway 95 in Bartlett fell to the concrete foundation Monday after rainy weather had postponed work for several days.

The beams had been positioned along the roof but, according to several persons there, had not been anchored when rain began and halted all further work.

"THEY HADN'T even had a chance to tie them (the roof beams) in," said Bill Cameron, Bartlett city secretary. "It was a misfortune of nature at a bad time. The additional weight of water might have caused them to fall," he speculated.

Librarian Mrs. Alfred J. Wacker suggested that high winds aided in the destruction.

"The beams hadn't been put on there permanently, just arranged to see how they should be put, as I understand it," she said. "They had not anchored them by any means — they were just set up there."

AND THE ROOF came tumbling down. During heavy rains in Bartlett Monday, the beams forming a roof for the Teinert Memorial Public Library came crashing. According to Bill Cameron, city secretary, the beams had been laid along the roofline but not yet anchored secured when rainy weather halted work and eventually caused the downfall.

Lewis W. Johnson and Associates of Austin, contractors for the job, could not be contacted to estimate damages or whether the completion date will be seriously set back.

THE LIBRARY is being built entirely from a $50,000 gift left the city by Mrs. Alma Teinert, who died in 1974. Her husband, W. C. Teinert, preceded her in death in 1962.

While the bequest will be used for the building and equipment, Mrs. Wacker is currently accepting book donations through the library located on Main Street in Bartlett.

"To qualify us as a community library under the Texas State Library System we need 10,000 volumes," she explained. "We have near 5,000 now."

All book donations, including paperback books, are being accepted. Books can be mailed at book rates (21 cents for the first pound, 9 cents for every pound thereafter) to the Teinert Memorial Public Library, P. O. Box 43, in care of Mrs. Wacker, Bartlett, Texas 76511, or taken to the library on Main Street in Bartlett.

SU netters enter two tournaments

The Southwestern University men's tennis team participated in the Big State Conference tournament in Marshall last week, and the women netters played in the zone tournament of the Texas Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (TAIAW) in Belton.

The girls, after sweeping a match with St. Mary's on Tuesday, were considered darkhorse contenders for the title behind Mary Hardin-Baylor and Texas A&M. Expected to participate in the tournament were Mary Ellen Clifford, Julie Crain, Marsha Miori, and Janice Doughty. The team is coached by Glada Munt.

Considered among the favorites for the championship, the men's team played LeTourneau in Longview on Wednesday in a conference match and then went into the conference tourney Thursday and Friday. Playing on the team were David McNitzky, Jay Elder, Cliff Leonard, and Greg Gordon. Coach is T. L. "Tex" Kassen.

LAST TUESDAY the men's and women's teams swept two matches in Georgetown as they prepared for their tournaments.

The men defeated Texas Lutheran College 6-0 in conference play while the women upped their season mark to ten wins against only four losses by blasting St. Mary's 6-0.

The men's team, which lost out in the conference race to perennial champion St. Edward's last year by only one point, 39-38, had another good chance going into the conference tourney, according to Coach Kassen.

The Bucs flexed their muscles against TLC by taking every match in straight sets.

David McNitzky defeated Eric Moe in the top singles match 6-2, while Jay Elder beat Jim Taylor 6-1, 6-2. Cliff Leonard topped Steve Makela 7-5, 6-3, and Raymond Khouw edged Ken Eilers 6-3, 6-1.

In doubles McNitzky-Elder remained undefeated in conference play with a win over Moe-Taylor 6-4, 6-4, while Khouw and Greg Gordon beat Makela and Eilers by an identical score.

The women had only one match go into three sets as they overpowered the San Antonians on the Southwestern courts Tuesday afternoon.

Mary Ellen Clifford beat Teresa Garner 6-1, 6-7, 6-4 in the top game while Julie Crain beat Katie Seibert 6-1, 6-1; Marsha Miori topped Cathy Kottwitz 6-0, 6-0; and Janice Doughty defeated Thelma Vela 6-2, 6-1.

In doubles Crain-Miori beat Garcia-Vela 6-1, 6-4 and Clifford-Doughty beat McKenzie-Kottwitz 6-2, 6-1.

Coach Glada Munt's team will play McLennan Community College in Waco today (Thursday) as a final warm-up before the TAIAW tournament.

"Mary Hardin-Baylor will have to be the favored team because of their outstanding foreign players," Coach Munt said. "And Texas A&M should also be a strong contender."

a9m was one of the few teams that was able to edge the Southwestern girls this season, and they did it 6-0.

That was back in January, however, and the Southwesterners have shown marked improvement since that time, with wins over such teams as Baylor Univ., which will also be in the Belton tourney.

Meanwhile, up in Marshall, Coach Kassen looked for the conference tourney to turn into a three-team fight between the current leader St. Edward's, St. Mary's (with the leading individual player), and Southwestern, (all with the top doubles team). Each team has a chance to play each of the other teams in the conference meet after all have played in individual matches earlier in the season. Each game won counts as a point, and Southwestern went to LeTourneau Wednesday with the opportunity of having a total of 30 points.

Mrs. Cynthia Brown

rites held Friday

Mrs. Cynthia Wood Murray Brown, 85, of Route 4, Mt. Pleasant, died Tuesday, April 6, 1976 in Mt. Pleasant. Mrs. Brown was a retired school teacher. She was born August 3, 1890 in Shelby County; a daughter of W. B. and Sarah (Bushing) Wood. She was married to Raymond Brown, who survives. She was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Funeral services were held Friday, April 9 at 1 p.m. from The Davis Chapel. Burial was in the I.O.O.F. Cemetery.

Reverend Al Cummins of Georgetown and Reverend Max Copeland of Marble Falls officiated at the service.

Mrs. Lois Forswall, organist provided the hymns, "How Great Thou Art" and "Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Pallbearers were Lige Murray, Bill Murray, Diaz Wood Murray, John Brown, Jeff Brown, Jack Brown, Ronald Fox, Ronald Waggoner, Jimmy Dusek and Charles Callaway.

Surviving relatives are her husband of Mt. Pleasant; three sons, Bill Murray and Jack Murray, both of Marble Falls and Tom Murray of Georgetown; two daughters, Mrs. John Brown, Galveston

Viennese flutist featured in Monday concert

The climax of the 1975-76 Southwestern University Artist Series occurs on Monday with an 8 p.m. concert in the Alma Thomas Theatre featuring two internationally-known musicians, Dr. Werner Tripp of Vienna, Austria, flutist, and Drusilla Huffmaster, pianist and Artist-in-Residence in the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University.

A reception honoring the musicians will be hosted by President and Mrs. Durwood Fleming in the Gallery immediately following the concert.

The program for this history-making event when a son-in-law and his mother-in-law perform a flute/piano concert includes Leonardo Vinci's "Sonata, D major for Flute and Piano," Mozart's "Sonata, No. 5, K.V. 14 for Flute and Piano," Poulenc's "Sonata for Flute and Piano," Debussy's "Syrinx for Solo Flute," Liszt's "Etude Transcendental, No. 10" and Prokofiev's "Sonata No. 2, Op. 94, D major for Flute and Piano."

DR. TRIPP is married to the former Karin Peterson, daughter of Drusilla Huffmaster (Mrs. D. H. Peterson). Dr. and Mrs. Tripp are currently living in Vienna, Austria.

A native of Graz, Austria, Dr. Tripp is solo flutist of the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra and Vienna State Opera Orchestra and professor at the Vienna Academy for Music and the Performing Arts. He has had numerous concert tours and engagements as soloist on the occasion of the international festivals in nearly all European countries.

Dr. Tripp is the recipient of numerous prizes and awards, including Mozart Competition in Vienna, International Competition for Modern Music (Darmstadt), International Competition for Young Musicians (Weikersheim, Germany), International Competition (Geneva), International Competition (Prague), and others.

A GRADUATE (with honors from the Conservatory of Music in Graz, Austria, Dr. Tripp has studied with Professor Hans Reznicek of the Vienna Philharmonic. He holds the Doctorate of Laws from the University of Graz, Austria.

Dr. Tripp has been soloist with the Vienna Philharmonic, Vienna Symphony Orchestra, Graz Philharmonic, Salzburg Mozarteum Orchestra, Dubrovnik Orchestra, Zagreb Soloists, Vienna Soloists, Innsbruck Symphony Orchestra, Chamber Orchestra of Lausanne, Vienna Chamber Orchestra, and others.

Presently a member of various music ensembles, Tripp performs with the Vienna Chamber Ensemble composed of members of the Vienna Philharmonic who have had three tours of Japan, concerts in Europe, Vienna June Festival, Salzburg Festival, Corinthian Summer, Mozart Festival in Salzburg. He is also a member of the Austrian Chamber Trio, giving concerts in Europe and

An international recording artist, Tripp's professional background includes radio recordings with numerous awards in Austria, Switzerland, Yugoslavia, France, Germany, Japan and elsewhere. Dr. Tripp was awarded the Mozart Flotenuhr, a prize for the best Mozart recording of the year (1975) given by the Mozart

DRUSILLA HUFFMASTER

Society of Vienna.

Drusilla Huffmaster, well-known at home and abroad, is a dazzling, gifted and radiant pianist, an artist of rare ability who brings to her art a meticulous workmanship and great beauty of interpretation. Rave reviews follow Drusilla Huffmaster's concerts wherever she performs in this country and in Europe.

Dividing her time between teaching and performing, Miss Huffmaster has achieved an enviable reputation in both fields. She joined the music faculty in the School of Fine Arts at Southwestern University in 1961 as Artist-in-Residence.

Termed by critics "poet of the piano" and "a pianist's pianist," Drusilla Huffmaster's musical heritage springs from a background rich in talent. Both mother and father, widely known as outstanding musicians, were her early teachers. Further study was with Adele Margulies, Viennese pedagogue, and the late Ernest Hutcheson, eminent Australian pianist and the late president of the Juilliard School of Music.

Drusilla Huffmaster's engagements have included concerts in leading music centers in Europe and numerous states in this country. Among the orchestras she has appeared with as soloist are the National Symphony and the National Gallery Orchestra of Washington, D.C., the Chautauqua Symphony (New York), Dallas, Austin, Houston (re-engaged 13 times to appear with this brilliant orchestra), San Antonio (touring with this outstanding orchestra), Lake Charles, Louisiana, and Juilliard orchestras.

LISTED IN WHO'S WHO OF AMERICAN WOMEN, Drusilla Huffmaster is a faculty member of the National Guild of Piano Teachers, Delta Omicron (international professional music fraternity), and is a recording artist of the Piano Guild Library. She is the recipient of many honors and awards for her outstanding achievements and contributions in the field of music.

Single admission tickets ($2.50 for adults, $1.25 for public school pupils) may be purchased at the box office in the Alma Thomas Fine Arts Center at Southwestern University 30 minutes prior to the 8 p.m. concert.

University personnel will present Lyceum/Activity cards for admission to the Artist Series. Season tickets will be honored at the door.

Pirate golfers in Big State tourney

Southwestern University's Pirate golf team, coming off a strong win in its own tournament at the Georgetown Country Club two weeks ago, played in the Big State Conference tournament in Marshall last week.

Going into the meet, the Pirates were one of the favored clubs. They set a new school record in the Georgetown tournament two weeks ago by firing a 287, one under par for the entire four players.

Mark Coward, last year's NAIA regional medalist, leads the Buc team along with Les Russell of Ozona (who won the local meet with a five under par 67), Smitty Tonahill of Jasper, and Georgetown's own Jerry Birkelbach and Steve Doering. Birkelbach was a medalist in an earlier tournament. The team is coached by Bill Merritt.

Texas Lutheran College was tabbed the team to beat in the conference tourney.

Southwestern and TLC have beaten each other in several tournaments earlier this season.

Each team plays five players in the tournament and gets to use the best four scores.

FLORENCE NEWS

BY MRS. J. E. CASKEY

The Postal Service must have decided to send the Sunday SUN to Florence by Pony Express; it arrived in Florence on Tuesday. The people of Florence feel that they deserve better treatment than they have had lately. We know the paper is started on its way but where does it go?

Editor's Note: The SUN learned this week of the mailing delays. Both the Austin Post Office and the Florence Post Office have been contacted and are working to alleviate the problem. Florence subscribers should receive the Sunday SUN on Saturday.

Please keep us informed about any problems so we can better serve you.

Mrs. Joe Whittenberg spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Burgess in New Braunfels.

Weekend guests in the Clyde Dannelley home were Nancy Dannelley of Stephenville and Judy Hunter of Bridgeport. On Saturday the guests were taken to Austin for shopping and sightseeing in the Capital City.

Mrs. Gene Milton and Mrs. Pearl Hopkins of Killeen were visitors in the Ashabanner home the first of the week.

Mrs. Martha Whitley was in Killeen on business Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Millstead visited his mother in Burk Burnett during the weekend.

Everett Faught of Albany, a former resident of the Florence community was buried in Albany Friday. Among the survivors is a brother N. W.

Faught of Georgetown. Mrs. Lula Caskey spent several days with the Flynn Reenders in Austin.

Monday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Caskey were Mr. and Mrs. Stanton W. Gardner of Arlington, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice L. Gardner of Kerrville, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Roper of Corpus Christi.

Mrs. Troy was shopping in Georgetown Wednesday.

E. E. Tomlinson of Killeen was a visitor in Florence Tuesday.

Stanton W. Gardner and E. E. Tomlinson were in Arlington Sunday to take a load of furniture to the Gardner home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Grimm and son of Georgetown spent Sunday in the Ed Rose home.

Child class opens school

A nursery school for children between the ages of two and five will be held by the child development class each Thursday from April 15 through May 20 at Georgetown High School, announced Mrs. Carolyn Kibodeaux, class instructor.

"WE HOPE to have about 15 or 20 children," she said. The classes, which are free, will last from 1:30-2:30 p.m. each Thursday.

"Every nursery school session will be planned by a different group of students."

Mrs. Kibodeaux explained. All classes are educational, each with a different theme, such as a certain vocation — fireman or policeman — or a letter of the alphabet.

THE CHILD development class which will be conducting the nursery school consists of 25 boys and girls, all juniors and seniors in school.

"If you would like for your child to participate," the instructor said, "call 863-6595. If they can't make the first one it is okay to come April 22."

Nature's artwork decorates Texas roadsides

Central Texas wildflowers are coming into their annual splendor, although drought sharply trimmed both their number and size from the super-spectacular display of last spring.

Each year wildflower season prompts many to search highways, roads, trails, fields, pastures and woods for the best display of showy plants or for endangered plants like the Texas bluebell, which likes moist prairies.

Although the bicentennial wildflower crop is meager, there are enough blooms plus many scenes of nature — such as newborn calves, colts and lambs gaily trying out unsteady young legs, or pastures blanketed with tender green sprouts and dotted with birds and butterflies — to turn a leisurely afternoon drive along back country roads into a memorable experience.

"SEPTEMBER RAINS bring bluebonnets," according to several avid wildflower worshippers, and it is never long after the rains until those hardy plants appear. Two fat, rounded leaves appear first, followed by the stem.

Bluebonnets are completely indifferent to winter's cold, regardless how bitter. They are equally impervious to varied soils, although they prefer sandy loam. Their little rock-like seeds are discriminating, seeking to cluster with their own, so that what may begin as a few plants soon grows to acre patches. Only drought and sheep and goats destroy the bluebonnet.

FROM THE COMANCHE INDIAN comes this delightful legend of the bluebonnet. A great drought had covered the land, so the Comanche Chief called a council to pray for rain. As they prayed, the Great Spirit told them what they must do. Someone in the tribe must give his most prized possession as a mingle with bluebonnets on the east side of IH 35 in the vicinity of Texas Crushed Stone. They are there again this year.

Turning off on County Road 116 we drove south until it deadends at County Road 111, where we turned left. This we followed to Hutto Road, which meanders to the right as it continues to Bell Gin, where we turned left onto the county road which leads to the Taylor highway. Then it was back to Georgetown.

FOR ANOTHER FINE floral roadside display, take Highway 195 toward Florence and turn right at Strickland Grove. Follow Strickland Grove road along Berry's Creek north to Owen Glasscock Valley, then turn left on county road 487 to Florence and continue down Farm-to-Market Road 970 to Andice. From there, FM 2238 leads back to Georgetown.

Many wildflowers — such as rock daisies, pink evening primroses, bluebonnets, sweet William or wild verbena, blue-eyed grasses, crow poison, prairie onion and assorted daisies — adorn roadsides and pastures along this route.

CROW POISON, or false garlic, one of the first flowers to appear in the spring on lawns, meadows and roadsides throughout the southern states, may bloom again in autumn.

Yarrow or Achillea millefolium, a plant featuring fern-like foliage, was named in honor of Achilles, who is attributed with the discovery of its healing properties. It is purported to stop bleeding, relieve spasms, produce sweating and act as a tonic.

Another popular plant is the Indian paintbrush, with the scarlet paintbrush probably the most widely distributed and best known.

sat holding her most cherished possession, her doll. The doll's bonnet was bright blue, made from the feathers of the blue jay. While the tribe slept, the little girl carried her doll to the top of the hills and made of it a burnt offering. As the winds swept across the hills, she took up the ashes and let them waft away with the breeze. The next morning the rains were sent, and the hills were covered with a strange plant whose flowering heads were composed of tiny blue bonnets, the color of her doll's headress.

THE TEXAS BLUEBONNET, known in pioneer days as buffalo clover, grows in great abundance on limestone hillsides and in sandy areas. Bluebonnets can be found growing in profusion along medians and fields lining Interstate 35, especially between Georgetown and Austin.

At one time bluebonnets were thought to ruin the fertility of the soil. On the contrary, they are excellent fertilizers because the small nodules on the roots contain nitrogen-fixing bacteria which add to soil nitrates.

Probably the most popular of the thousands of species of flowering plants in Texas the bluebonnet was adopted as the state flower in 1901.

MRS. ELEANOR BROGREN, who will probably be recalled from our first hidden pleasure feature — birding — divides her leisure time between birding and searching out wildflowers.

either old favorites or new species. "This isn't a good year to write a story about wildflowers: last year was a good year for wildflowers, but not this year. There hasn't been enough rain," Mrs. Brogren told me as we drove south along old Highway 81, hoping to get a glimpse of whitebonnets that

Field day

Bees and butterflies are having a field day with all the flowers in bloom.

Next year's beginning

The petals of the poppies have fallen away, leaving only the seed pods.

SWEET WILLIAM or wild verbena, also known as prairie phlox, covers the ground like a pinkish-purple blanket in April and May. Pioneer children knew to pull the tiny flowers and suck the tube ends, which have sweet nectar sought by butterflies and bees.

Another popular specimen is the Indian blanket, which normally flowers from April through June, covers the roadsides and unplowed fields with its showy, daisy-like blossoms. Its colors vary with the soil but usually the Indian blanket is a rusty red with flecks of yellow.

The Comanche Indian, who handed down much folklore by mouth, gives us this legend about the Indian blanket.

WHILE THE COMANCHE CHIEF was away at war his squaw was weaving him a colorful blanket to celebrate his victories.

Their daughter sat at her mother's feet watching her blend in the red, green and orange with flecks of yellow. Finally she tired of watching and went far into the forest. Night settled among the hills and the little girl realized she was lost. She lay down upon the ground and prayed to the Great Spirit to cover her with a blanket whose colors would be the same as those of her mother's.

The Great Chief came home the next morning, proud of his victories until he learned his little girl was lost. Taking his braves into the forest to find her, discovered her finally beneath rusty red flowers flecked with yellow and blooming on green stems, the colors of her mother's blanket.

TENDERLY HE he lifted his daughter and told his warriors. "Hereafter these flowers shall be called Indian blankets."

Bright bluebonnets and red poppies also highlight yards of Georgetown residents. One very attractive yard belongs to Carl Adams of 701 East Eighth Street. Clumps of bluebonnets adorn the front, side and back yards of Adams home, along with many other cultivated plants.

The red poppies were supposedly brought to Georgetown from Flanders Field by Purl Compton during World War I. The seeds were planted in his mother's yard and later along the railroad tracks and on the road to the park.

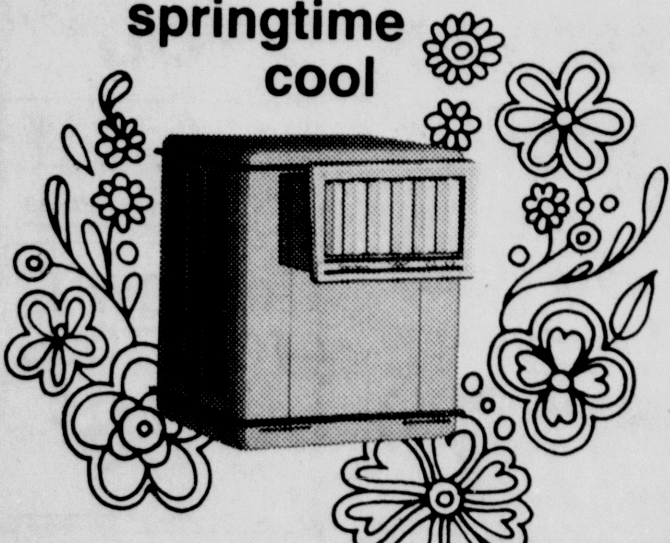

Just a few of the many area wildflowers have been mentioned in this story. Different flowers will continue to blossom through the summer as recent showers will bring forth new growth.

Dawn of Freedom presentation depicts signing of Declaration

"The Dawn of Freedom," a highly acclaimed multi-screen presentation depicting the historic events surrounding the Declaration of Independence, has been scheduled for showing in Georgetown, April 12. This is just one stop on a five-month, 60-city tour of Texas.

This presentation has received the National Recognition Award from Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge — one of the top eight awards given from over 20,000 nominated entries.

"Dawn of Freedom" will present three showings in Georgetown Tuesday, at 9 a.m. at the high school and at 2 p.m. at the junior high school. The public is invited to attend the free presentation at 7:30 p.m. in the junior high school auditorium.

The production relives the life and times of the signers of the Declaration during the critical days preceding July 4, 1776, and the years of sacrifice and war that led to final victory and freedom for the colonies.

The 50-minute presentation, which coordinates six slide projectors with recorded music and narration, was produced by Vickie Jones Foster and LeRoy Foster of Austin to commemorate the nation's bicentennial by dramatically portraying the integrity, honesty and selflessness of the nation's founders in their fight for freedom and independence. The Fosters spent eight months working on the show producing it entirely at their own expense. During production of the show, the producers traveled to many of the historic sites that played significant roles in the dramatic events leading up to and following the Declaration of Independence. They also spent hundreds of hours in museums and libraries researching and photographing historic paintings and documents that are used in the show.

Chamber seeking

Miss Georgetown

A new Miss Georgetown will be chosen Friday, May 14 to represent the city throughout the Bicentennial year.

Letters about the Chamber of Commerce sponsored function were mailed out this week to local clubs and service organizations.

Clubs or private individuals are asked to sponsor a nominee for the contest. A $20 entry fee is necessary to sponsor a girl.

Qualifications for entering the contest are as follows:

Georgetown High School senior or junior (This is for 1976 only. Beginning in 1977 candidates will be juniors only.)

Never married.

Must be available for all Chamber functions.

The functions of Miss Georgetown are to represent the city in area parades and hometown events such as Annual Western Week and Rodeo and formal dedications.

The Chamber requests that nominations be entered by Friday May 7, 1976. Donations will be readily accepted to help defray the cost of travel for Miss Georgetown.

Leander trustees

meet again Mon.

A legal representative from the Civil Liberties Union will come before the Leander School Board in a special meeting Monday night to seek a hearing concerning alleged disciplinary action taken by Superintendent Jack Warner and principal Julia Young.

Attorney Jose Camacho will represent Mrs. Teresa Hernandez as she seeks to have the board decide whether Warner and Young went against school district policy when they allegedly disciplined her son Edward.

Also slated on the agenda are:

- Discussion of retaining legal counsel for the Board.
- Discussion of repairing the roof at the Leander Elementary School.
- Consideration of offer of assistance by Robert Morris in developing for the school district.
- Consideration of bills.
- Discussion of personnel.
- Report on continuous contracts and professional consultation agreement by the Leander Education Association.

tion in the show are closely coordinated. The script is comprised of authentic quotes from the early patriots, comments from later historians and a structural narrative written by the Fosters.

The producers are touring the entire state, giving free presentations to junior and senior high school students during the day and to the general public at night.

Funding for the tour has been received from the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration through the Texas Bicentennial Commission as well as private foundation donations.

During their five-month tour, beginning January 1, they will visit 60 major cities in the state in order to have showings within a 50-mile radius of more than 350 Texas bicentennial communities.

It is estimated that as many as 250,000 school students will attend the presentation during the state-wide tour.

Juvenile caseload up in county court

Juvenile cases reached a three-year high of 18 cases on the county docket in March, according to reports filed with the Texas Judicial Council by Neal Boydston, Williamson County Court Clerk.

Boydston's reports show a second high of 16 juvenile cases on the docket during March, 1974.

Although only 3 juvenile cases were pending at the beginning of last month, 15 new delinquency petitions were added.

The county averaged about 3.5 new juvenile cases per month through 1974 and 1975.

While 9 juvenile cases were disposed of during the last quarter of 1975, during the first quarter of this year 12 juvenile cases were disposed of.

The 4 March dispositions included 1 finding of not delinquent or not in need of supervision and 3 need of supervision cases.

THE QUARTER began with 1 case pending and ended with a high 14 cases pending. In the last 30 months no more than 9 juvenile cases have been reported pending at the beginning of a month.

The office of the county attorney has indicated that the greater additions last month may be a trend rather than a unique occurrence.

"Since people realized there is a facility here to perform the tasks outlined in the Family Code the tempo has really picked up on these juvenile cases," said Bill Stubblefield, assistant county attorney.

The attorney's office has been handling a noticeable increased load of juvenile offense cases since January, Stubblefield said, but added, "We started handling them on a regular basis in November."

THIS IS NOT clearly reflected in the monthly county report, he explained, because not all juvenile cases which are referred to the county attorney are handled through the court.

In a seven-day period during March the attorney's office recorded more than four incidents, including one involving two juveniles accused of car theft; another series of incidents including vandalism,

The Sunday SUN

burglary and theft which involved six juveniles; one incident of burglary and vandalism causing an estimated property damage of at least $700, in which a juvenile and a child under 10 were involved; recurrence of a runaway, which Stubblefield said his office has been involved with for over two months.

Referring to a report which totaled the number of cases handled by the county court at 43 for 1975, Stubblefield said, "These do not reflect all the cases referred to this office by any means at all."

Grohman named junior Rotarian

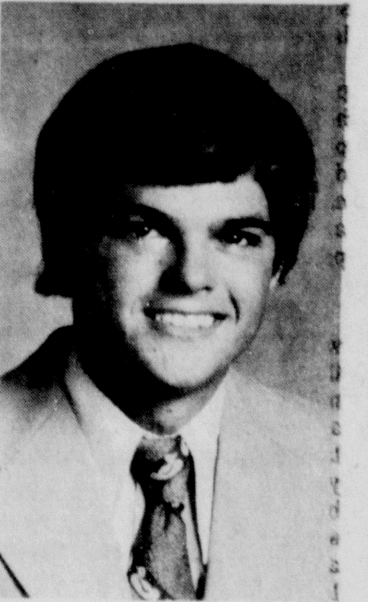

Thomas Grohman, son of Al and Sharon Grohman, has been selected Junior Rotarian for the month of April. Thomas is a senior at Georgetown High School.

Tom has been active in U.I.L. Science events for the past three years. He was selected as a Rotary Scholar last year and has been in the National Honor Society for two years, serving as vice president this year. He was also a nominee for Mr. G.H.S. this year.

Thomas ran track and played football his freshman and sophomore years.

Thomas was selected by the faculty to attend Boys State last summer.

After graduation, Tom plans to attend Texas A&M University and major in biology.

SAFEWAY WILL BE CLOSED ALL DAY EASTER SUNDAY

So that our employees may have the opportunity to observe Easter with their families, your Safeway store will not be open for business next Sunday. Your cooperation in planning to complete your food shopping ahead of Easter will be most appreciated. We hope that your family, too, enjoys a happy holiday.
